Miro To Face Support Battle

... OVER HIS RAP OF U.S.

Miami, Fla. (U)—Cuban Revolutionary Council president Jose Miro Cardona, publicly rebuked by the United States for his purported bitter denunciation of U.S. policy toward Communist Cuba, faced a fight Tuesday for council support of his stand.

The council, through which the U.S. government has dealt on exile matters, was reported split on the issue.

Six of 12 revolutionary groups comprising the body were represented as ready to accept Miro's resignation when the matter comes to a showdown Thursday night.

Others indicated they would reject his offer to quit.

Reneged

Council members said they believed the text of Miro's controversial resignation letter, lambasting U.S. policy and reportedly charging the Kennedy administration reneged on anti-Castro action offers, would be made public after Thursday's council meeting despite reported U.S. pressure to the contrary.

The Miami News quoted sources close to Miro as saying he had been threatened with deportation if he released the text.

The news also said Miro has been told that if he makes public the 20-page document "no exile would ever again be admitted inside a U.S. government office." Miro has had such access.

Miro declined to comment.

Inaccurate

In Washington the state department, which has a copy of the document, sharply rebuked Miro Monday night and called his paper inaccurate.

The council will decide at its forthcoming session not only whether to accept Miro's resignation, but whether to disband or to name a new president and continue.

John H. Crimmins, chief of the State Department's Cuban Affairs Office in Miami, said he was studying the situation closely.

Situation fluid

Asked whom the U.S. government would deal with now in view of the break with Miro, Crimmins said, "The situation is fluid." He declined to elaborate.

... DAMAGE IN MILLIONS

Honolulu (U)—Two rainswept islands of Hawaii were declared disaster areas Tuesday night by Gov. John A. Burns who asked President Kennedy to take the same action.

The disaster call was issued, a spokesman for the governor said, so the state can qualify for federal relief to handle cleanup of mounting damage officially estimated at more than $2.18 million thus far.

The area affected is Oahu (Honolulu) and Kauai islands which took the brunt of a 3-day drenching storm.

Police termed it "the worst storm to hit Hawaii in 12 years."

The rains stopped at midday Tuesday and by nightfall skies were clearing. The Weather Bureau forecast scattered clouds and only occasional showers for most of the Hawaiian chain Tuesday night and Wednesday.

Two Die

Burns pointed out two persons died when they were swept into a rain swollen stream.

The torrential rains turned the mid-Pacific state into a soggy mess. Mountain streams on Oahu and Kauai overflowed their banks knocking at least 100 homes off their foundations.

Waikiki Beach tourists, kept inside by downpours, headed home. Visitors grumbled that they came for sunshine and swimming.

"This weather we can get at home," one departing visitor said.

Small craft warnings went up. Squalls were predicted along the north and east coasts. Gale force winds were expected at sea 50 miles from Honolulu.

'Private School Laws Save Nebraskans Many Dollars'

By WILLIAM B. KETTER

United Press International

A State Education Department official Tuesday estimated Nebraska's private school laws are saving citizens between one-fourth and one-half million dollars annually.

Ben T. Meckel, director of private vocational schools, said approximately that amount was being siphoned out of the state by high-pressure educational racketeers before the first private school law was passed in 1957.

"Before our Legislature decided to act," Meckel said, "Nebraska, being at the crossroads of the nation, was considered happy hunting grounds for every fraudulent kind of private vocational education that was ever conceived."

'10 Easy Lessons'

Educational racketeers are salesmen who offer a correspondence course that allegedly will in "10 easy lessons at home" qualify the trainee in various professions and skilled trades such as engineering, heavy equipment operation, air line stewardess and dental and X-ray technicians.

But, Meckel added, "Nebraska no longer is confronted with this cancerous problem. Most fly-by-night salesmen stay clear of this state."

Noting that only half of the states have private school laws, Meckel expressed hope that "other states will follow our example and stamp out these unprincipled operators."

Nebraska, he said, is surrounded by states which do not have such laws. "If only they would realize that the way to cope with these professional con men, is to specifically legislate against them."

Example For States

Nebraska's laws are highly regarded by federal education officials and are often pointed to as an example of "how to solve a national problem on a state level," Meckel said.

In 1957 the state Legislature, fed up with the flood of complaints about educational racketeers, enacted a law requiring the licensing and bonding of all educational salesmen who represent privately owned correspondence, business and trade schools.

"This was the first step and a mighty good one," Meckel declared.

Subsequent Legislatures tightened the law and added a few more rigid regulations, he added, including one forcing all domestic private vocational schools to post a $5,000 bond before authorized to operate.

Non-resident salesmen must post a $1,000 bond.

"The bonding regulation makes Nebraska pretty much of a 'stay-out-of-state' for unscrupulous salesmen,"

However, there are still a few "hit and run" operators who will take a chance on entering Nebraska for a few days, and there are always those who permit themselves to be victimized by the high-pressure salesman, Meckel said.

"But in all honesty, rigid enforcement of our laws has resulted in great savings to citizens who were previously exploited and defrauded in the name of education."

According to Meckel, there are more educational racketeers in the United States than ever before in history.

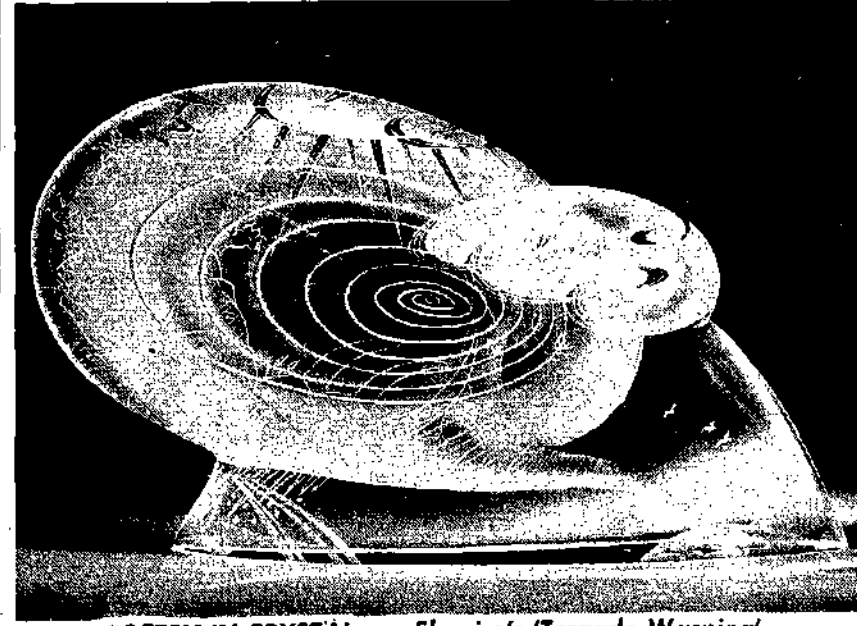

With his fact in mind, Meckel's department sends to each graduating high school senior a warning, informing him of the numerous "pie in the sky" offerings and pointing out the legitimate schools.

Looking ahead, Meckel said, it is his hope that legislation will be enacted to permit private vocational school instructors to become certified by the State Board of Education.

"Right now," Meckel said, "certain courses offered by domestic vocational schools are accredited after very demanding regulations are met. I think the next step should be to certify instructors."

Meckel emphasized that there are many excellent privately owned correspondence, business and trade schools that offer bona fide instruction. "In fact, they are a vitally important part of the total educational picture," he added.

POETRY IN CRYSTAL ... Shapiro's 'Tornado Warning'.

Crystal Interprets Shapiro

A poem, "Tornado Warning", by Karl Shapiro has been interpreted in crystal by the Steuben Glass Co. as part of an exhibition, "Poetry in Crystal," which opens Thursday in New York.

The exhibition will show engraved crystal forms inspired by new poems commissioned from 31 distinguished American poets. Shapiro, a teacher of English at the University of Nebraska, won a Pulitzer prize for his poetry in 1945.

The text of the Shapiro poem:

It is a beautiful morning but the air turns sick. The April freshness seems to rot, a curious smell. Above the wool-pack clouds a rumor stains the sky. A fallow color deadening atmosphere and mind. The air gasps horribly for breath, sucking itself. In spasms of sharp pain, light drifts away. Women walk on grass, a few husbands come home. Bushes and trees stop dead, children gesticulate.

Radios warn to open windows, tell where to hide.

The pocky cloud mammoth-cumulus comes on. Downward-projecting bosses of brown cloud grow.

Lumps on lymphatic sky, blains, tumors, and dugs. Heavy cloud-balls that writhe in general disease of sky.

White bits of hail clip at the crocuses and clunk.

At cars and windowglass. We cannot see the mouth. We cannot see the mammoth's neck hanging from cloud.

Snout open, lumbering down ancient Nebraska. Where dinosaur lay down in deeps of clay and died.

And lowering elephant fell and billion buffalo.

We cannot see the horror-movie of the funnel-cloud. Snuffing up cows, crazing the cringing villages. Exploding homes and barns, bursting the level lakes.

Hawaii for most of the past 4 weeks.

Windward Oahu, across the mountains from Honolulu, has been hard hit. So, also, has the island of Kauai. There hundreds of residents evacuated the southern coastal town of Hanapepe when a stream overflowed.

Crop losses alone were estimated in excess of $3 million. Property damage was in uncounted millions.

Jeeps Hit

Two jeeps carrying 5 Schofield barracks soldiers were swept off a road in central Oahu. Army Lt. Col. Chester F. Sunski of Seattle and Sgt. Maj. Oliver F. Anderson, 45, of Wilkesboro, N.C., drowned. Their bodies were recovered Tuesday downstream.

Eighteen inches of rain fell in 6 hours on windward Oahu, forming a valley lake a half mile wide and 15 feet deep.

Mrs. Carl W. Hermanson of the community of Kaaawa on the windward side said she saw 3 houses wash down to sea "like houseboats."

Some 200,000 trout in a trout farm near Waialae, 3 1/2 miles from the ocean, were washed out into the Pacific.

Kauai police estimated 400 persons were driven from homes at Hanapepe by the surging Hanapepe stream. Two of the homes were washed away and some 60 were flooded.

Beermann Urges 'No' Wheat Vote

By DON WALTON

Star Staff Writer

Rep. Ralph Beermann Tuesday said he believes Congress will provide wheat farmers with "a better choice" of plans if they turn down the administration's program in next month's referendum.

The administration proposal "takes away" freedom, vests "too much control" in the hands of the secretary of agriculture and provides "no real alternative choice," the Republican congressman declared.

Beermann said it is "awfully hard (for him) to buy this talk" by administration agricultural officials that there will be no farm legislation if the wheat plan is kayced.

"Don't think those political-oriented people in the White House won't have a bill in the hopper the next day," he said.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman is "not telling the truth" when he says the choice for wheat farmers is between $1 and $2 a bushel, Beermann said.

'Action Needed'

On another agricultural issue, Beermann told The Star that the declining livestock market is "a problem which requires executive action."

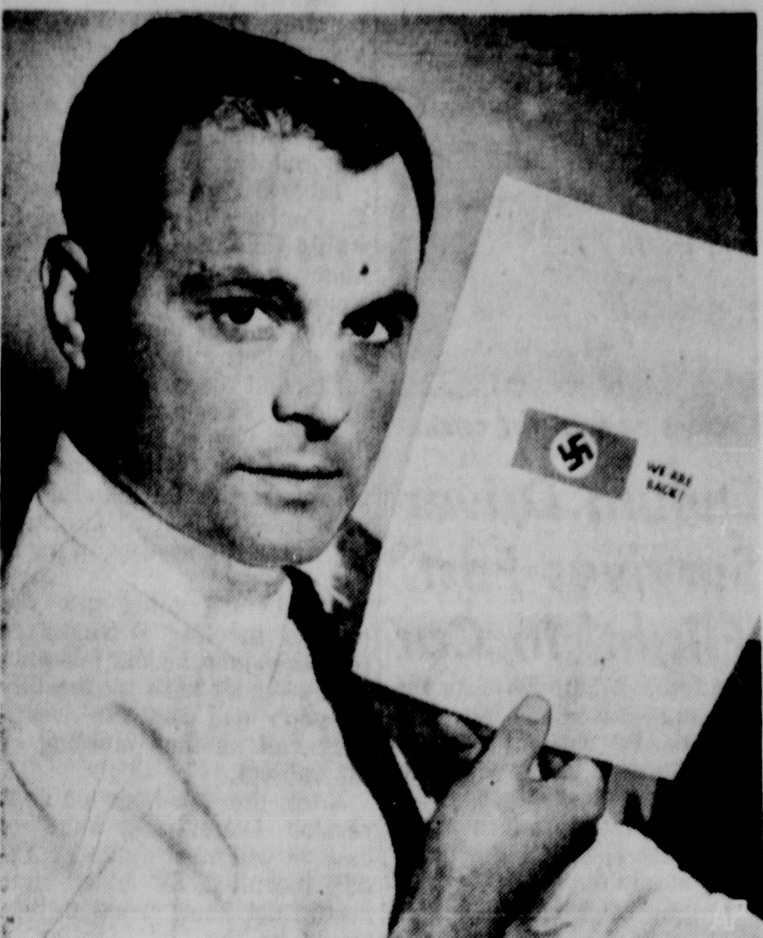

The sagging market, he said, was caused by increased meat imports, Internal Revenue "dumping of grain on the market last year." These 3 major factors were complicated by "a number of uncertainties," Beermann noted.

Earlier, Beermann told a Lincoln reception that "I can't give you any hope for cuts in spending" by the current Congress. Comparative appropriations are already up $2 billion, he said.

U.S. Steel, 3 Others Join In Price Hikes

New York (AP)—The swing to higher prices on selected steel products picked up momentum Tuesday as U.S. Steel Corp., industry giant, and 3 other major producers fell in line.

Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., No. 4 company, announced increases a couple of hours after "Big Steel." Then came Inland Steel Co., 8th-ranking producer. Sixth-ranking Armco Steel Corp. announced increases a few hours earlier.

With industry leaders coming off the fence, there were signs the movement might snowball.

Bethlehem Steel Co., 2nd-ranked, has made no announcement.

The 8 companies posting steel's big 10, produced over one-half the nation's steel in 1962.

As yet, there was no sign of the storm of protest from Washington that quickly met across-the-board steel increases a year ago and played a big part in their withdrawal.

U.S. Steel, which led the abortive price drive of April 1962, announced boosts on certain flat rolled products averaging $4.65 a ton, the lowest so far.

Leslie B. Worthington, "Big Steel" president, said higher prices were "obligatory" considering what he called his company's squeezed profits and "in the light of all competitive conditions."

Steel "costs less than anything you buy," Worthington said, and even with today's changes overall steel prices stand only at about levels of 1953, year of the last general increase.

Inquiry Order

In Congress, the nearest thing to a discouraging influence to date was an order for an inquiry into steel prices, profits and production problems.

The inquiry was set in motion by Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., a former economics professor and chairman of the Joint Senate-House Economic Committee. Hearings will start next week.

The President, vacationing in Palm Beach, Fla., has maintained silence after cautioning steelmakers against upsetting general wage-price stability.

Kennedy said last Thursday, after Wheeling Steel Corp. started the price increase parade, that selected boosts would not necessarily have this effect.

Stuhldreher Says Action Necessary

U.S. Steel's decision to join smaller steel producers in a price hike came as no shock to an assistant to the vice president of the nation's largest steel firm.

"The increase is needed more now than it was a year ago," Harry Stuhldreher, United States Steel official in charge of human relations, noted when informed of the increase.

Stuhldreher was in Lincoln to address the 9th annual recognition dinner of the Cornhusker Council of Boy Scouts.

"We needed the increase because investments in new equipment over the years have cut down on income and on dividends," the former Notre Dame football star said.

Dividends Cut

Stuhldreher said the price hike was needed a year ago but was rescinded at the request of President Kennedy.

"When we weren't allowed to boost the price last year, we had to cut down on dividends to pay for new equipment," he said.

"Cutting down on dividends naturally discouraged investment, so something had to be done now to keep our dividends at a respectable level," Stuhldreher continued.

He said he did not go along with the idea that the price increase would give unions an opening to demand higher wages.

"Union leaders recognize that the steel industry has been hard pressed by competition and they will go along with our efforts to catch up," he said.

Stuhldreher noted that the European Common Market offers stiff competition to U.S. producers because "They can produce at far lower costs than we do."

"I feel that we can compete with them through research, service and delivery and that it is in these 3 areas that we must continue to work," he added.

"But, we must also try to close the cost gap," Stuhldreher warned.

Skipper Of Skylark Named As Party To N-Sub Inquiry

Portsmouth, N.H. (AP)—A Navy court Tuesday named the skipper of a submarine escort vessel as a party to the inquiry in the loss of the nuclear submarine Thresher with 129 lives.

Named by the courts—but not charged—was Lt. Cmdr. Stanley W. Hecker, 36, of Brooklyn, N.Y., skipper of the vessel Skylark.

The court said to Hecker: "The evidence in question reflects that you failed to inform higher authority of all the information available to you pertinent to the circumstances attending the last transmissions received by Skylark from the Thresher on 10 April 1963, as it was your duty to do, for an unreasonable length of time."

"The court wishes to emphasize that this apparent failure on your part cannot conceivably have contributed in any way to the loss of the USS Thresher and those on board."

Designated

"You are accordingly designated as a party before this court. Counsel for the court will now inform you of your rights as such."

Capt. Saul Katz, counsel for the court, told Hecker he has the right to obtain counsel, examine records of all evidence thus far, cross-examine witnesses, introduce witnesses and can present a closing argument at the conclusion of the inquiry. Hecker also was told he could challenge members of the court.

Austin advised Hecker "the findings of this court could affect the safety of others in submarines. I know that you will expedite examination of the record."

Recessed

The admiral then recessed the court to permit Hecker to familiarize himself with all the evidence taken thus far during 5 days of hearings in New London, Conn., and Portsmouth.

Earlier, Adm. Ramage told the court his opinion about the loss of Thresher is "not one I'd care to state in open session."

The naval inquiry court indicated Ramage's theory involved secret or confidential information and might be taken later in executive session with the press and public excluded.

Vice Adm. Elton W. Grenfell, commander of the Atlantic Fleet submarine force, went behind closed doors with the court Monday to disclose his opinion of the loss of the $45 million submarine during a deep dive test.

Duluth Driver Survives Fast 'Flight' In Car

Duluth, Minn. (AP)—A Duluth man remained hospitalized Tuesday with injuries suffered Sunday night when his car sailed some 50 feet across railroad tracks before landing upside-down on the canopy of an old depot.

William Van Guilder, 30, suffered internal injuries but was thought to be dead when rescuers first reached the car on its precarious perch. He was pulled out when rescuers heard him moan.

Police said witnesses estimated the speed of Van Guilder's car at 90 to 100 miles per hour as it rocketed down a steep hill, crashed through an iron fence and flew over the tracks. It side-swiped a car waiting at a stop sign during the flight.

Police were still investigating circumstances of the accident.

Diefenbaker Delays His Resignation

Ottawa (AP)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker delayed his resignation Tuesday and Liberals were reported planning to assume power Monday instead of Friday, the original target date.

Liberal Party leader Lester B. Pearson had predicted he would take over from Diefenbaker and his Conservatives Friday.

Diefenbaker gave no reason for his delay in resigning.

He had been expected to hand in his resignation to ailing Gov. Gen. Georges P. Vanier, Queen Elizabeth II's representative in Canada, after a meeting with the outgoing cabinet Tuesday morning.

But before going into the cabinet meeting Diefenbaker told newsmen he did not plan to see Vanier until Wednesday at noon and that he would then call another meeting of his cabinet.

After the two-hour cabinet session, Diefenbaker said his cabinet will meet again Thursday morning. He added that he did not know whether this would be the last meeting.

"There might be one later," he told reporters.

A reporter asked if this meant that he would submit a postdated resignation to Vanier. Diefenbaker replied that he couldn't answer the question because he did not understand it.

The reporter explained that the assumption was that Diefenbaker was going to see Vanier to resign.

"That's what you wrote," Diefenbaker told the reporter. "But your assumption was not well-founded."

The procedure in a change-over of government is for the outgoing prime minister to submit his resignation to the governor general. The governor general then names a successor, in this case it will be Pearson if normal procedure is followed.

JFK Alters Trip Because Of Baby

Palm Beach, Fla. (AP)—President Kennedy arranged Tuesday to make his June trip to Italy a business one and to postpone until next year his planned state visit to Rome—so his wife can accompany him.

The journey to West Germany and Italy this summer is being juggled in this fashion because of the expected birth of the first family's 3rd child in August. The 33-year-old Jacqueline Kennedy had to cancel plans to accompany her husband to Rome. She had not planned to go with him to Bonn because that already was listed as a working visit.

However, it is understood Kennedy does expect to go also to Ireland to visit the home town of his forebears in New Ross, County Wexford. There were reports he might include other countries.

White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger announced that Kennedy, with "the ready understanding" of the Italian government, had made a diplomatic switch so his forthcoming visit to Italy will be considered a "working visit" for politically important conferences with Italy's leaders.

Doctor's Privilege

Washington (AP)—Once again, darkhaired, soft-spoken Dr. John W. Walsh considers it a privilege to help out at the birth of a baby to Mrs. John F. Kennedy.

"I consider it a tremendous privilege. I am delighted to help out," said the 49-year-old obstetrician who has the role of principal physician to Mrs. Kennedy, who, the White House said Monday, is expecting a child in August.

These were the same words Dr. Walsh used at Georgetown University hospital after a nighttime emergency on Nov. 25, 1960, when John F. Kennedy Jr., was born to President-elect and Mrs. Kennedy.

It was he who told the waiting reporters, "mother and baby doing fine."

Dr. Walsh had answered Mrs. Kennedy's emergency phone call and ordered an ambulance to take her to the hospital for the premature birth of John Jr., while he raced to her side.

U.S. Steel, 3 Others Join In Price Hikes

New York (AP)—The swing to higher prices on selected steel products picked up momentum Tuesday as U.S. Steel Corp., industry giant, and 3 other major producers fell into line.

Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., No. 4 company, announced increases a couple of hours after "Big Steel." Then came Inland Steel Co., 8th ranking producer. Sixth-ranking Armco Steel Corp. announced increases a few hours earlier.

With industry leaders coming off the fence, there were signs the movement might snowball.

Bethlehem Steel Co., 2nd-ranked, has made no announcement.

The 8 companies posting steel's big 10, produced over one-half the nation's steel in 1962.

U.S. Steel, which led the abortive price drive of April 1962, announced boosts on certain flat rolled products averaging $4.85 a ton, the lowest so far.

Leslie B. Worthington, "Big Steel" president, said higher prices were "obligatory" considering what he called his company's squeezed profits and "in the light of all competitive conditions."

Steel "costs less than anything you buy," Worthington said, and even with today's changes overall steel prices stand only at about levels of 1958, year of the last general increase.

Inquiry Order

In Congress, the nearest thing to a discouraging influence to date was an order for an inquiry into steel prices, profits and production problems.

The inquiry was set in motion by Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., a former economics professor and chairman of the Joint Senate-House Economic Committee. Hearings will start next week.

The President, vacationing in Palm Beach, Fla., has maintained silence after cautioning steelmakers against upsetting general wage-price stability.

Stuhldreher Says Action Necessary

U.S. Steel's decision to join smaller steel producers in a price hike came as no shock to an assistant to the vice president of the nation's largest steel firm.

"The increase is needed more now than it was a year ago," Harry Stuhldreher, United States Steel official in charge of human relations, noted when informed of the increase.

Stuhldreher was in Lincoln to address the 9th annual recognition dinner of the Cornhusker Council of Boy Scouts.

"We needed the increase because investments in new equipment over the years have cut down on income and on dividends," the former Notre Dame football star said.

Dividends Cut

Stuhldreher said the price hike was needed a year ago but was rescinded at the request of President Kennedy.

"When we weren't allowed to boost the price last year, we had to cut down on dividends to pay for new equipment," he said.

"Cutting down on dividends naturally discouraged investment, so something had to be done now to keep our dividends at a respectable level," Stuhldreher continued.

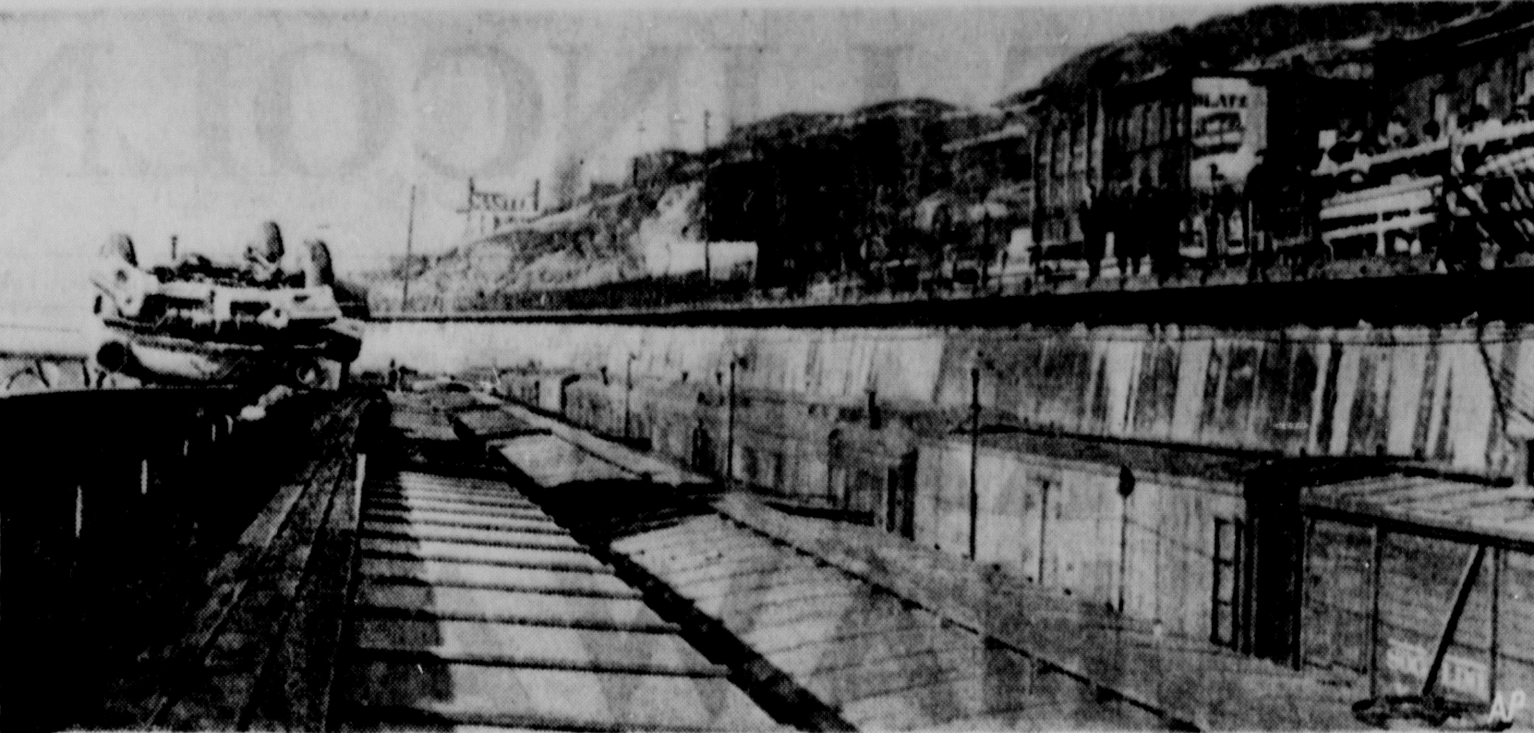

He said he did not go along with the idea that the price increase would give unions an opening to demand higher wages.

"Union leaders recognize that the steel industry has been hard pressed by competition and they will go along with our efforts to catch up," he said.

Stuhldreher noted that the European Common Market offers stiff competition to U.S. producers because "They can produce at far lower costs than we do."

"I feel that we can compete with them through research, service and delivery and that it is in these 3 areas that we must continue to work," he added.

"But, we must also try to close the cost gap," Stuhldreher warned.

Skipper Of Skylark Named As Party To N-Sub Inquiry

Portsmouth, N.H. (AP)—A Navy court Tuesday named the skipper of a submarine escort vessel as a party to the inquiry in the loss of the nuclear submarine Thresher with 129 lives.

Named by the courts—but not charged—was Lt. Cmdr. Stanley W. Hecker, 36, of Brooklyn, N.Y., skipper of the vessel Skylark.

The court said to Hecker: "The evidence in question reflects that you failed to inform higher authority of all the information available to you pertinent to the circumstances attending the last transmissions received by Skylark from the Thresher on 10 April 1963, as it was your duty to do, for an unreasonable length of time."

The court wished to emphasize that this apparent failure on your part cannot conceivably have contributed in any way to the loss of the USS Thresher and those on board.

Designated

"You are accordingly designated as a party before this court. Counsel for the court will now inform you of your rights as such."

Capt. Saul Katz, counsel for the court, told Hecker he has the right to obtain counsel, examine records of all evidence thus far, cross-examine witnesses, introduce witnesses and can present a closing argument at the conclusion of the inquiry. Hecker also was told he could challenge members of the court.

Austin advised Hecker "the findings of this court could affect the safety of others in submarines. I know that you will expedite examination of the record."

Recessed

The admiral then recessed the court to permit Hecker to familiarize himself with all the evidence taken thus far during 5 days of hearings in New London, Conn., and Portsmouth.

Earlier, Adm. Ramage told the court his opinion about the loss of Thresher is "not one I'd care to state in open session."

The naval inquiry court indicated Ramage's theory involved secret or confidential information and might be taken later in executive session with the press and public excluded.

Vice Adm. Elton W. Grenfell, commander of the Atlantic Fleet submarine force, went behind closed doors with the court Monday to disclose his opinion of the loss of the $45 million submarine during a deep dive test.

Duluth Driver Survives Fast 'Flight' In Car

Duluth, Minn. (AP)—A Duluth man remained hospitalized Tuesday with injuries suffered Sunday night when his car sailed some 50 feet across railroad tracks before landing upside-down on the canopy of an old depot.

William Van Guilder, 30, suffered internal injuries but was thought to be dead when rescuers first reached the car on its precarious perch. He was pulled out when rescuers heard him moan.

Police said witnesses estimated the speed of Van Guilder's car at 90 to 100 miles per hour as it rocketed down a steep hill, crashed through an iron fence and flew over the tracks. It side-swiped a car waiting at a stop sign during the flight.

Police were still investigating circumstances of the accident.

Diefenbaker Delays His Resignation

Ottawa (AP)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker delayed his resignation Tuesday and Liberals were reported planning to assume power Monday instead of Friday, the original target date.

Liberal Party leader Lester B. Pearson had predicted he would take over from Diefenbaker and his Conservatives Friday.

Diefenbaker gave no reason for his delay in resigning.

He had been expected to hand in his resignation to ailing Gov. Gen. Georges P. Vanier, Queen Elizabeth II's representative in Canada, after a meeting with the outgoing cabinet Tuesday morning.

But before going into the cabinet meeting Diefenbaker told newsmen he did not plan to see Vanier until Wednesday at noon and that he would then call another meeting of his cabinet.

After the two-hour cabinet session, Diefenbaker said his cabinet will meet again Thursday morning. He added that he did not know whether this would be the last meeting.

"There might be one later," he told reporters.

A reporter asked if this meant that he would submit a postdated resignation to Vanier. Diefenbaker replied that he couldn't answer the question because he did not understand it.

The reporter explained that the assumption was that Diefenbaker was going to see Vanier to resign.

"That's what you wrote," Diefenbaker told the reporter. "But your assumption was not well-founded."

The procedure in a change-over of government's is for the outgoing prime minister to submit his resignation to the governor general. The governor general then names a successor, in this case it will be Pearson if normal procedure is followed.

JFK Alters Trip Because Of Baby

Palm Beach, Fla. (AP)—President Kennedy arranged Tuesday to make his June trip to Italy a business one and to postpone until next year his planned state visit to Rome—so his wife can accompany him.

The journey to West Germany and Italy this summer is being juggled in this fashion because of the expected birth of the first family's 3rd child in August. The 33-year-old Jacqueline Kennedy had to cancel plans to accompany her husband to Rome. She had not planned to go with him to Bonn because that already was listed as a working visit.

However, it is understood Kennedy does expect to go also to Ireland to visit the home town of his forebears in New Ross, County Wexford. There were reports he might include other countries.

White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger announced that Kennedy, with "the ready understanding" of the Italian government, had made a diplomatic switch so his forthcoming visit to Italy will be considered a "working visit" for politically important conferences with Italy's leaders.

Doctor's Privilege

Washington (AP)—Once again, da-khaired, soft-spoken Dr. John W. Walsh considers it a privilege to help out at the birth of a baby to Mrs. John F. Kennedy.

"I consider it a tremendous privilege. I am delighted to help out," said the 49-year-old obstetrician who has the role of principal physician to Mrs. Kennedy, who, the White House said Monday, is expecting a child in August.

These were the same words Dr. Walsh used at Georgetown University hospital after a nighttime emergency on Nov. 25, 1960, when John F. Kennedy Jr. was born to President-elect and Mrs. Kennedy.

It was he who told the waiting reporters, "mother and baby doing fine."

Dr. Walsh had answered Mrs. Kennedy's emergency phone call and ordered an ambulance to take her to the hospital for the premature birth of John Jr., while he raced to her side.

The trim, youthful-looking doctor then was plunged into the additional job of acting as a medical spokesman to the public. He earned the respect and friendship of many newsmen with his patient, good-natured attitude.

Pilot Of Airliner Avoids Crash In Skies Over G.I. ... Omahan Was Flying AF Plane

Chicago (U)—A Chicago bound Continental Air Lines jet carrying 61 persons, made a sharp climbing turn to avoid a collision with a U.S. Air Force jet tanker 29,000 feet above Grand Island, Neb., Monday.

William Hart, captain of the Boeing 707, en route from Los Angeles pulled up sharply without warning passengers in avoiding a collision.

He said the Air Force plane passed under the airliner and continued on course apparently unaware of the close call.

A passenger said the 51 passengers and crew of 8 were badly shaken but that no one was injured.

No Action In Capt. Janing's Long Hearing

Omaha (U)—The City Council concluded a 3-hour hearing Tuesday on the dismissal of Capt. Ted Janing as head of the police vice detail without taking action.

"It is now up to the citizens of Omaha," Councilman Arthur Bradley Jr. said. "It is quite apparent that this council does not want to take action."

During the course of the hearing Capt. Janing declared Safety Director Chris Gugas tossed a newspaper at him but Gugas said he had tossed the newspaper to, not at Janing. Gugas admitted however, he was annoyed at news stories carrying public statements by Janing after Janing had been told not to make public statements.

Gugas declared he did not "gag" Capt. Janing but told him "not to make any statements until the bar association's investigation was completed."

The bar association investigation concerned charges made by Janing in a speech before a service club that the city Legal Department had displayed inefficiency. City Attorney Herbert Hille refused these charges. He declared the 1962 conviction rate in vice cases was 72 out of 10. He said persons outside the legal profession who made public criticism of prosecution "can do some damage."

Janing also told of a session with Mayor James Dworak when Dworak told him he had been offered $10,000 to remove Janing as head of the vice squad. Dworak said that was true, but that he had actually said was that Janing must be a good policeman since the mayor had been offered $10,000 to get him off the vice squad.

Janing also said the mayor had sent assistant City Attorney Walter J. Matejka to the home of Sgt. Louis Kostka to see if he would be willing to take command of the vice squad, as there was consideration of removing Janing. May or Dworak denied that he had sent Matejka to speak for him saying if Matejka went to Kostka he did so on his own. Matejka, who is recovering in a hospital from an operation, said he had visited Kostka "quite a bit" but he did not feel well enough to discuss it in detail.

Three Teenagers Fail Reformatory Escape Attempt

Three teenagers were foiled in an attempt to escape from the Men's Reformatory Tuesday evening when Lt. Glenn Christiansen heard them trying to saw open the lock on the door of the electrical shop.

Nebraska Penal Complex Warden Maurice Sigler said the youths had secreted themselves in the shop as their cellmates passed from school to the cellblock.

They were Harry A. De Jaynes, 18, of Douglas County, serving 2 1/2 years for burglary; Robert McAfee, 18, of Lancaster County, 12 years for auto theft and William Dunlap, 17, of Omaha, being held for transfer to the Boys' Training School in Kearney to serve 1-2 years for auto theft.

Five action was required to avoid the collision. He said the 29,000-foot level was the assigned altitude for the Chicago-bound plane.

The Continental flight No. 2, continued on to Chicago, landing at 2:10 p.m. 12 minutes ahead of schedule.

The Air Force plane is a tanker used for refueling while in flight.

Beck said a report of the incident will be made to the Federal Aviation Agency.

At FAA headquarters in Washington a spokesman said the traffic controller at its Denver center who was involved in the incident had been relieved pending investigation, in accordance with FAA practice in these circumstances.

The investigation is being conducted by the western region office at Los Angeles.

FAA said its information is that both planes were east bound at 29,000 feet, and were operating under instrument flight rules.

The airline pilot saw the jet tanker moving in and out of the clouds, and asked for and received permission to descend to 28,000 feet.

The FAA spokesman said the report received by the agency indicated the airliner descended at perhaps a more rapid than usual rate but did not either dive or pull up to avoid a collision.

He said the planes came within half a mile of each other.

An Air Force spokesman said the KC135 tanker, assigned to the Grand Forks Air Force Base, N.D., had been cleared by FAA for an instrument flight from Denver to Grand Forks "at an assigned altitude of 29,000 feet."

Strategic Air Command headquarters in Omaha identified the pilot of the KC135 jet tanker as Capt. Merrill Platt, Omaha, Neb., who was flying from Denver to the plane's home base in Grand Forks, N.D.

Capt. Platt reported he did not see the airliner, a SAC spokesman said. Under instrument flight rules, the plane had been assigned to 29,000 feet, SAC said and could not change without FAA clearance.

Khrushchev Will Be 69 Wednesday

Moscow (UPI)—Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, chief of all the Russians, will be 69 years old Wednesday but few of the Soviet Union's 220 million citizens are aware of it.

Only those who read the fine print of half a million official desk calendars will find at the bottom of the page a sentence indicating that "N. S. Khrushchev, chairman of the Council of Ministers of the U.S.S.R., member of the Presidium of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, first secretary of the Central Committee, was born April 17, 1894."

It will be just another day in the drama laden life of the world's most powerful ruler, who is now on a work rest relief at the Black Sea resort of Gagra.

The Russians ignore ordinary birthdays of their leaders and only celebrate key anniversaries in multiples of 5. Khrushchev's 70th birthday next year probably will be marked as a semi-official holiday.

The Soviet premier, at his temporary capital, is reported dividing his time between directing the vast and tangled affairs of the Communist world and enjoying the "simple" pleasures of family life.

Riding in the cab along with Lortz and Miss Brown was Laura Elliott, 10, of 2844 No. 50th. She was described in fair condition with back and head injuries.

Doris Whitcley, 15, of 5734 Hatley suffered left knee cuts and Ronald Severn, 15, of 2824 No. 50th suffered abrasions and back and ankle injuries. Both were passengers in the truck's bed and were treated and released at the hospital.

Young Driver Is Bound Over In Car Death Case

North Platte (U)—Ronald Empfield, 17, North Platte was bound over to District Court Tuesday for trial on charges of motor vehicle homicide.

Following a preliminary hearing County Judge Oscar Sandall set bond at $2,500.

Empfield was charged in connection with an intersection collision in North Platte March 27, in which Mrs. August Miller of North Platte was fatally injured.

A witness at Tuesday's hearing testified that a car driven by Donald Wilson, 16, of North Platte, and Empfield's car both went through a stop sign. Empfield's car following Wilson was in collision with the car driven by Mrs. Miller.

Wilson, who was on probation from the Boys Training School at Kearney, was taken there under a revocation of probation.

Menninger Study Set For School

Kearney (U)—The Nebraska Boys Training School has disclosed that the department of social psychiatry at the Menninger Foundation of Topeka, Kan., has been asked to do a study on the return rate at the school.

Supt. William Ettinger said the research will help provide an understanding of problems of after care and point the way to adjustments in the school program.

The study will be set up as a 5 year project.

Hyannis Feels Effect Of Damaging Tornado

By the Associated Press
Tornado weather hit Nebraska Monday.

Twisters were reported in the Hyannis, Superior, Sidney and Kearney area.

At Hyannis, Sheriff Walter Bowen said a tornado demolished a newly built hangar belonging to Don Manning and an airplane in it was extensively damaged.

Two trailers were blown over and suffered heavy damage.

The sheriff said the wind was clocked about 90 miles an hour. He noted haystacks had been reduced to one half or one third their normal sizes by the wind.

Uprooted trees were reported both in Hyannis and in Mullen where the wind reached a velocity of 70 miles an hour.

A tornado Monday night hit the Floyd Butler farm 1 1/2 miles southeast of Superior. The farm house was damaged and other buildings were knocked down.

Debris tore out power lines. The tunnel had been observed.

Mrs. Thayer, her 4 children, her brother and her mother-in-law took refuge in the basement of the home as the twister hit.

There were two oddities as the playhouse and barn were wrecked.

Five kittens in the barn were picked up and then let down alongside a fence.

Last Minute Write-In Also Tops Recount

Ogallala (U)—A last minute quest for support won the write in race for police magistrate for Leighton Skinner. Skinner and Orville Bush were deadlocked 18-18 following the municipal elections but a recount showed Bush actually had only 17.

Skinner said that about 6 p.m. the evening of the election he decided to bid for the office and called a few friends who in turn asked others to write in Skinner's name.

Bush had been filling a vacancy created by the resignation of magistrate Frank Sibal.

FORD GALAXIE 500/XL SPORTS HARDTOP

YOU'LL KNOW WHY SHE DOESN'T FEEL THE BUMPS...WHEN YOU TEST-DRIVE FORD'S NEW $10,000,000 RIDE

The 1963 Ford gives you a ride every bit as smooth as cars costing hundreds more, and for two reasons: a revolutionary new suspension system and added road hugging weight.

It took ten million dollars to develop the new Ford ride. We designed a revolutionary new suspension system for the '63 Ford. Where ordinary suspensions move only up and down to absorb road shock, the Ford suspension moves backward as well. In this double-action suspension system, coil springs up front and leaf springs in the rear combine to give you the firmness you need in cornering and a special smoothness over the road.

We added weight, strength and stability. The new Ford is now actually hundreds of pounds more car than any other car in its class. This remarkable weight advantage is in the suspension, frame and body. And, as you know, this added weight means a more stable ride.

But a solid, road-smoothing ride is only part of Ford's total performance story for 1963. Look at Ford's astounding record in open competition this year.

—in sweeping the field in the grueling Daytona, Riverside and Atlanta 500's and in the demanding Pure Oil Performance Trials. Only a car with total performance—the best combination of strength, balance, precision control, braking power and road clinging suspension—could roll up so many wins.

Before you buy any new car, test drive a Super Torque Ford. If you haven't driven one lately, you can't really know what a new Ford is like. Remember—if it's built by Ford, it's built for performance...total performance.

Dworak said that was true, but what he had actually said was that Janing must be a good policeman since the mayor had been offered $10,000 to get him off the vice squad.

Janing also said the mayor had sent assistant City Attorney Walter J. Matejka to the home of Sgt. Louis Kostka to see if he would be willing to take command of the vice squad, as there was consideration of removing Janing. Mayor Dworak denied that he had sent Matejka to speak for him, saying if Matejka went to Kostka, he did so on his own. Matejka, who is recovering in a hospital from an operation, said he had visited Kostka "quite a bit" but he did not feel well enough to discuss it in detail.

Three teenagers were foiled in an attempt to escape from the Men's Reformatory Tuesday evening when Lt. Glenn Christiansen heard them trying to saw open the lock on the door of the electrical shop.

Nebraska Penal Complex Warden Maurice Sigler said the youths had secreted themselves in the shop as their cellmates passed from school to the cellblock.

They were Harry A. De-Jaynes, 18, of Douglas County, serving 2-3 years for burglary; Robert McAfee, 18, of Lancaster County, 1-2 years for auto theft; and William Dunlap, 17, of Omaha, being held for transfer to the Boys' Training School in Kearney to serve 1-2 years for auto theft.

Khrushchev Will Be 69 Wednesday

Moscow (UPI)—Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, "chief of all the Russians," will be 69 years old Wednesday but few of the Soviet Union's 220 million citizens are aware of it.

Only those who read the fine print of half a million official desk calendars will find at the bottom of the page a one-sentence notation saying "N.S. Khrushchev, chairman of the Council of Ministers of the U.S.S.R., member of the Presidium of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, first secretary of the Central Committee, was born April 17, 1894."

It will be just another day in the drama-laden life of the world's most powerful ruler, who is now on a work-rest retreat at the Black Sea resort of Gagra.

The Russians ignore ordinary birthdays of their leaders and only celebrate key anniversaries in multiples of 5. Khrushchev's 70th birthday next year probably will be marked as a semi-official holiday.

Pickup Flips Off 70th; Seven Youths Injured

Seven young Lincolntonites were injured Tuesday morning, 5 seriously, when the driver lost control of a pickup truck which left the road on No. 70th near the Salt Creek bridge, overturned, flew about 27 feet into the air and then landed upright.

The truck, containing the driver and 6 passengers, was demolished.

Deputy Sheriff William Greiner identified the driver as Lucky Lortz, 16, of 5621 Fremont. He was listed in fair condition at Bryan Memorial Hospital.

North Platte (AP)—Ronald Empfield, 17, North Platte, was bound over to District Court Tuesday for trial on charges of motor vehicle homicide.

Following a preliminary hearing County Judge Oscar Sandall set bond at $2,500.

Empfield was charged in connection with an intersection collision in North Platte March 27, in which Mrs. August Miller of North Platte was fatally injured.

A witness at Tuesday's hearing testified that a car driven by Donald Wilson, 16, of North Platte, and Empfield's car both went through a stop sign. Empfield's car following Wilson was in collision with the car driven by Mrs. Miller.

Wilson, who was on probation from the Boys Training school at Kearney, was taken there under a revocation of probation.

Hyannis Feels Effect Of Damaging Tornado

By the Associated Press
Tornado weather hit Nebraska Monday.

Twisters were reported in the Hyannis, Superior, Sidney and Kearney area.

At Hyannis, Sheriff Walter Bowen said a tornado demolished a newly built hangar belonging to Don Manning and an airplane in it was extensively damaged.

Two trailers were blown over and suffered heavy damage.

The sheriff said the wind was clocked about 90 miles an hour. He noted haystacks had been reduced to one-half or one-third their normal sizes by the wind.

Uprooted trees were reported both in Hyannis and in Mullen where the wind reached a velocity of 70 miles an hour.

A tornado Monday night hit the Floyd Butler farm 1 1/2 miles southeast of Superior. The farm house was damaged and other buildings were knocked down.

Debris tore out power lines. The tunnel had been observed earlier near Red Cloud. At Sidney, a playhouse and a two-story barn were wrecked at the home of Dr. James Thayer in the southwest section of the city.

Mrs. Thayer, her 4 children, her brother and her mother-in-law took refuge in the basement of the home as the twister hit.

There were two oddities as the playhouse and barn were wrecked:

Five kittens in the barn were picked up and then let down alongside a fence;

A 2 by 8 that was 16 feet long was driven through a concrete block in an incinerator.

The same winds apparently hit Ordville, a housing development at the Sioux Ordnance Plant. Most of the damage there was inflicted to cars.

Ogallala (AP)—A last-minute quest for support won the write-in race for police magistrate for Leighton Skinner.

Skinner and Orville Bush were deadlocked 18-18 following the municipal elections but a recount showed Bush actually had only 17.

Skinner said that about 6 p.m. the evening of the election he decided to bid for the office and called a few friends who in turn asked others to write in Skinner's name.

Bush had been filling a vacancy created by the resignation of magistrate Frank Sibal.

TOTAL PERFORMANCE:

FORD GALAXIE 500/XL SPORTS HARDTOP

YOU'LL KNOW WHY SHE DOESN'T FEEL THE BUMPS...WHEN YOU TEST-DRIVE FORD'S NEW $10,000,000 RIDE

The 1963 Ford gives you a ride every bit as smooth as cars costing hundreds more, and for two reasons: a revolutionary new suspension system... and added road-hugging weight.

It took ten million dollars to develop the new Ford ride. We designed a revolutionary new suspension system for the '63 Ford. Where ordinary suspensions move only up and down to absorb road shock, the Ford suspension moves backward as well. In this double-action suspension system, coil springs up front and leaf springs in the rear combine to give you the firmness you need in cornering and a special smoothness over the road.

We added weight, strength and stability. The new Ford is now actually hundreds of pounds more car than any other car in its class. This remarkable weight advantage is in the suspension, frame, and body. And, as you know, this added weight means a more stable ride.

But a solid, road-smoothing ride is only part of Ford's total performance story for 1963. Look at Ford's astounding record in open competition this year —in sweeping the field in the grueling Daytona, Riverside and Atlanta 500's and in the demanding Pure Oil Performance Trials. Only a car with total performance—the best combination of strength, balance, precision control, braking power and road-clinging suspension—could roll up so many wins.

Before you buy any new car, test-drive a Super Torque Ford. If you haven't driven one lately, you can't really know what a new Ford is like. Remember —if it's built by Ford, it's built for performance... total performance.

Which Way Should We Go?

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Those who advocate a change to a partisan legislature make a number of interesting points in behalf of their proposal. These points generally fall into two categories — political organization and the enactment of legislation. It is argued that Nebraska would have a stronger, more vibrant political system and would have a more productive and responsive legislature if we elected senators on a political ballot.

Perhaps all of this is true, although it is by no means a matter of unanimous agreement, but if it is, it needs some additional exploration. On the political side, it is said that the issue is not one of control of the legislature but a matter of reliance upon the two-party system that has served this nation so well throughout its history. This two-party system is not about to be condemned here as it certainly is the finest political order that exists today for holding together a nation of diverse interests while it guarantees to all citizens the maximum freedom and independence.

But the two-party system does not have to be applied at all places and at all levels of government in order to prove its merits. If it demanded such universal application, we should have it throughout our judicial system and in every city and school district of the nation. It is not, of course, in such widespread use and no one advocates that it be given such prominence.

Thus, the question of where it is used involves a great deal of uncertainty rather than pure political fact or political science theory. Many people would favor a change in our electoral college system of electing a president of this nation but such a change certainly seems to be a long way off.

The electoral system survives, for one thing, simply because it is with us and changes on such a large scale as the national scene just are hard to come by. It survives, too, for a lot of other reasons, some political and some based on what are believed to be solid theories of government. And this brings us to the second argument used in behalf of a partisan legislature. This argument is a little more difficult to analyze. It is based in the thought that the history of our non-partisan legislature is a poor one from a legislative point of view — that the legislature has not moved the state as it would have been moved if there were available the leadership tool of a partisan body.

To this we will agree, but this is about as far as agreement would go. Exactly what sort of action is it that would be preferred by those who want a partisan legislature? One Nebraska editor has said, along with other criticisms, that because of our non-partisan status, we must "endure the longest and most inept legislative sessions across the land." Of great interest to all should be the reference to the ineptness of the legislature. This suggests—and critics of the present system are generally strong on this point — that the legislature has failed in giving this state the programs it needs to meet the challenges of the times. Yet, many of those who oppose the system on this ground can be found in opposition to a great deal of that which is suggested as an answer to current problems.

Do those who want a change to partisanship want less government or more government? Has the legislature failed because it has not done enough or because it is prone to do too much? It is our opinion that it has not done enough but we are quite aware of the existence of considerable opinion to the contrary.

Has the legislature failed because it has not provided state aid to education, has not broadened the tax base, has not provided our institutions with many of the facilities they need, has maintained a tight hold on all pursestrings, has not stepped up our highway program, has starved efforts toward industrial expansion, has refused to effectively push school consolidation?

We believe a great many who want a partisan legislature would not want affirmative action in any of the above areas. We believe they would not want affirmative action, period, in just about any field of possible legislation you could mention. What they want is lower taxation and fewer government programs.

Those who advocate a change in the system of electing state senators should give some specific examples of where they believe the legislature has failed in the past so all can see what their idea of improving the situation might be.

It is highly doubtful that we would improve things with a change in our system. The only way for any state to make progress is for its people to have enough faith and confidence in its future to invest in it in terms of programs and facilities that make that state a rewarding place in which to live. This isn't accomplished through any magic system, but through the attitude and thinking of the people themselves. To change our system would be just another escape from reality.

The Two-Party System

No Desire For Action

The Beleaguered City

As a city Washington, D.C. is an anomaly. It is government ridden, not municipally but federally speaking.

For all practical purposes the permanent citizens enjoy hardly more franchise than that of voting on the weather. Congress has much more to say.

It is true that Congress appropriates money for the city. But it also expands the government and creates a steadily increasing municipal burden for which it frequently fails to compensate by proportionate increases in its municipal allowance.

In 1921 the federal government paid 50 per cent of the city's budget. Currently it is paying about 12 per cent.

Washington city officials claim they have about exhausted their taxing resources and their part of the city is declining.

There is no way to divorce Washington from its novel relationship with the seat of federal government for that was the reason for its original establishment. But there is good sense in requiring a greater financial responsibility on the part of Congress for a city that must not only be a city but a municipal showcase for what is now the most potent nation in the world.

President Kennedy has recognized this and has recommended a more realistic formula by which the federal share of the city's financial burden can be computed. Legislation expressing the formula has been introduced in Congress. This is one item that would expand the federal budget by a few million annually which will actually find few critics among the nation's taxpayers. If Congress is not aware of this then it would be a good act of citizenship to originate a post card shower addressed to the lawmakers.

The Sounds Of War

One Navy officer testifying in regard to what proved to be the last communication with the ill fated submarine Thresher said he detected over the hydrophone the sound of "a ship breaking up" — like a compartment collapsing. The testimony had not been corroborated by any other witnesses and other Navy officers have said they had never before heard of the "breaking up" sound described.

The Navy may or may not give much credence to the report of this sound but there isn't any question that war has many sounds that are unique. In fact, sound is a major part of any war as it is a by-product of the destructive power that has been unleashed by a nation against an enemy. And those who have been close to war in any capacity know for themselves the sounds that carry with them a certain fear.

Either at sea or on the land, the noise of heavy gunfire or exploding bombs was ample notice of the danger that existed. Sight, perhaps, was next as the eyes of men watched the terrible desolation spread in the waging of war. There were times when the sky would be lit up with the force of bombs and exploding materials that were the tools of war. And there were times when the sight and sound were only the quiet of death.

The testimony as to the sound of the Thresher "breaking up" may be a questionable fact that it should cause the millions who have heard such sounds and seen such things as are the marks of war to renew their dedication to the achievement of a lasting peace. It must be peace with honor, of course, but there is no effort too great to make when one remembers the awful consequences of past wars and considers the even more dreadful consequences of any future conflagration.

South Breaks The Line

Officials at Georgia Tech and Tulane, schools in the Deep South, have announced that henceforth their athletic teams will not observe the color line.

A little earlier, Mississippi State broke with tradition when it permitted its basketball team to play on a National Collegiate tournament game at Chicago.

Other schools in the Southeast Conference remained silent on the question. But the defection of the three is seen as the beginning of the end of segregation in college athletics. It is only a short step from playing against desegregated teams to accepting desegregation of one's own team.

Desegregation in athletics is very genuine. Anyone who examines a pile of football players would agree that in that instance desegregation has been carried about as far as it can go, short of dismemberment and reassembly of parts without regard to what is whose.

It is unique that it is in the field of the arts and of competitive athletics that tolerance has flourished most greatly. Conversely, it is in the field of politics and economics where the greatest intolerance is found. And of all fields the one of college athletics is the peer in that it combines both acceptance with the opportunity for higher education.

Even in desegregated schools social conditions are not yet ideal, but they are improving. But this advises Negro athletes to restrain the temptation to concentrate on schools where it is most comfortable. In their quest for equal station it is important that they consider their pioneering role in every school and not make the error of segregating themselves along lines of least resistance.

"You Ought To Do Something About That Slice . . . I"

DREW PEARSON Thurmond Meets With Reverse

WASHINGTON—The first secret session of the Senate since World War II was supposed to be so secret that any member divulging its contents would be expelled from the Senate. However, this column can report some of the details of the debate plus two general conclusions reached by other senators:

1. The four and half hours of debate was a waste of time.
2. The Senate needs a watchdog committee to disqualify senators who may profit personally from certain votes. In this case, Sen. Strom Thurmond, the South Carolina Dixiecrat who carried the ball for the Army's missile program, is an Army reserve major general. He was the man who raised such a furore in favor of Gen. Edwin Walker, the John Birchman who was reprimanded for teaching John Birch ideas to his troops and later was charged with inciting the riots at Oxford, Miss.

Friends say Maj. Gen. Strom Thurmond would like to be promoted to the rank of lieutenant general. The secret session first required 45 minutes to iron out parliamentary tangles before the real debate could begin.

Sen. Thurmond then made a vigorous and detailed speech proposing that $196,000,000 cut earlier from the military spending authorization bill, be restored. This money originally was to speed up development of the Nike-Zeus anti-missile missile designed to knock down inter-continental missiles launched from an enemy country before they hit targets in the United States.

The most awesome prospect in modern war is the hurrying of these giant missiles over the top of the world by the U.S.A. and USSR, capable of knocking out the major cities on both sides in thirty minutes.

The senator from South Carolina gave an intelligence report on Russian missiles—the only part of the entire Senate debate which should have been off-the-record—indicating that Russia could knock out our Polaris missiles out of the air, possibly also our long-range Minuteman.

After he had finished, Sen. Dick Russell, D-Ga., made an oratorical mince-meat of his fellow southern Democrat. Russell is longtime chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee and knows his missiles.

He disclosed the fact that out of 90 times the Nike-Zeus had been fired, it had come close to target only three times. And this was when its launchers knew the angle at which the feigned enemy missile was coming in.

Sen. Jim Eastland of Mississippi joined Russell in sharply quizzing Thurmond, who finally agreed that the American anti-missile system was superior to the Russian.

At the end of the long closed-door debate, the Senate voted Thurmond down, 58 to 16; following which Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., moved to change the rules so it would no longer be possible for two senators to call a secret session.

DORIS FLESON South, West Are Rightist Bastions

WASHINGTON — These Easter holidays were never more beautiful in Washington than Senator Frank Moss (D-Utah) finds little time to relax. He breakfasted Monday with men interested in his campaign for re-election next year, lunched with a political correspondent, and after checking carefully with his office to be sure all visiting firemen from Utah were happy here, arranged with his wife to dine with some of them.

Far from complaining, he is glad of the chances such schedules afford him to air his problems and accomplishments. He had realized the problems might be numerous. Utah likes Republicans, too, and last year re-elected Senator Wallace Bennett against the vigorous opposition of former Rep. David King. The state has a Republican governor, George Clyde.

Birth Control Issue Reappears

WASHINGTON — When Congress returns after the current recess, the battle will be rejoined over foreign aid, with the Clay report serving both for those who want to cut back and those who want to hold the line at not less than $4 billion.

Four years ago a blue ribbon committee similar to that headed by Gen. Lucius Clay touched off a prolonged dispute in a sensitive area of public opinion. That earlier committee, under William H. Draper Jr., unanimously urged the government to assist countries, on request, with their plans to deal with the problem of rapid population growth and to support research in population control.

Draper, an investment banker, and the other members of the committee were convinced that the population explosion in underdeveloped areas was largely nullifying American aid. With the swift success of methods to check malaria and other killers, the number of mouths to feed keeps pace or exceeds the gains in production.

In the four years since his report was issued, as Draper pointed out recently, the world's population has grown by 200,000,000, an increase of 7 per cent. Most of this is in Asia, Latin America and Africa.

In countries such as India and Pakistan the pitifully low standard of living is barely maintained with American aid as the population spirals up. The rate of increase is greatest in Central America, where President Kennedy recently spoke brave words about economic development.

While the Clay report contains only one innocuous sentence on how the population problem complicates foreign aid, the question of American help for countries seeking population control promises to come up again in acute form.

A book already on sale in the book stores and soon to be published discloses that in the aftermath of the controversy over the Draper Committee recommendations on population control an important proposal by a committee of distinguished experts was suppressed.

*The sequence of events was as follows:

In August, 1961, the National Institutes of Health called the experts together to consider what research was being done on fertility control and how it was being financed. They were also asked to outline what funds were required for further study.

A year later the experts were told by NIH that "it no longer seemed necessary" to publish the survey—in short, it was being suppressed. When this became known, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Anthony J. Celebrezze ordered the report published. It appeared last December, showing that about $6,100,000 was being spent on problems of fertility, most of it from private sources.

But the report did not contain the recommendation of the experts who called on the government to spend, through the National Institutes of Health, an annual $16,600,000 for research in the fields as well as $4,000,000 to help finance eight research centers. They contended that only government could provide the funds to make up the deficit in an area of research long neglected.

The book setting forth this sequence is "The Time Has Come" by Dr. John Rock, formerly clinical professor of gynecology at Harvard and now head of the Rock Reproductive Clinic in Brookline, Mass.

The subtitle of his book, certain to stir the widest interest, is "A Catholic Doctor's Proposals to End the Battle Over Birth Control." In a foreword, former Secretary of State Christian Herter, now President Kennedy's chief trade negotiator, refers to the author as "A Roman Catholic immensely devoted to his church" who was a key participant in developing the first effective oral contraceptive.

Rock was one of the experts called in by NIH to consider further research on population control in response to the Draper Committee's recommendations. He argues that further research would improve the rhythm method of birth control, which is the only method approved by the Catholic church. But he also contends, with extensive quotations from Catholic theologians, that use of the contraceptive pill may be permissible under the same justification advanced for the rhythm method.

When President Eisenhower was asked at a press conference whether the American government should—on request—send information on population control as part of American aid, he reacted with more indignation than at almost any other moment in his eight years in the White House.

He said he could not imagine anything more emphatically not a proper political function for government. This was the more surprising since the Draper Committee was reported to have considered the population problem at Eisenhower's suggestion.

The Kennedy administration has taken an extremely cautious line. But since the population explosion is considered by many to be almost as great a threat as nuclear annihilation, it can hardly be suppressed.

School Land

Nebraska City, Neb.

Nebraska school children and the trustees of their school lands had better begin to pay attention to what is going on in the Legislature. The "vultures" are up to their old tricks trying to get possession of the children's heritage.

These "vultures" are being represented in the Legislature by several western senators who are busy cooking up new schemes and making some pretty wild statements in order to deceive the gullible and fool the taxpayers into thinking that money brought from the sale of these lands will yield more benefits if put into bonds. Bonds decrease in value. Money and bonds have a way of disappearing these days. Handled by the "right" people, they vanish overnight into the private bank accounts of these people (all we know is what we read day after day in the newspapers).

The school land is a permanent thing. It's right there—a positive, safe investment forever for Nebraska school children—and what's more, every one of those senators know it, regardless of all their fast talk to try to convince the real taxpayers that farm land is a shaky investment.

The land grabbers want to base the sale price of these lands as of January 1, 1961. Why not 1963 prices? Farm prices in the last few years have been inflated beyond all sense of real value. Then they whine night and day about being overburdened by taxes.

These senators are seemingly telling us that the school lands have become slums and blighted areas comparable to any found in a large city. It's pretty difficult for anyone to believe that 1,600,000 acres of beautiful wheat land or waving grass with millions of beautiful grazing cattle or thousands of fine ranch homes and buildings in two years have become slums. However, if this is true, the tenants have perhaps failed in their contracts. In that case, the senators have a moral obligation to the real owners of this land, Nebraska's school children and their heirs forever to start proceedings against present tenants to revoke their contracts.

LB624 or any other bill designed to hand their own land over to special interest groups should be vetoed.

Osteopathic Bill

Beatrice, Neb.

I saw in The Star of April 10 that the osteopathic doctors' bill had come up before the Unicameral several times and had been voted down. Why? Those doctors are as much entitled to practice their profession as the other doctors. Our Constitution says every man has a right to buy, sell, manufacture, and to protect his property and that state laws cannot be made that conflict with the federal law. This part of the Constitution is what got Arkansas and Mississippi in bad with the government. This protects not only the osteopathic doctor, but bookies, as well, and probably others that I haven't heard about.

The best thing I can suggest to the Legislature is that it wipe the bluff off its state to save its face. If Kennedy catches up with them, that face might not look so good. The governor of Mississippi was lined and got a jail sentence, too.

The sweeping assertion in your April 10 editorial about Nebraska's "sorry representation" in Washington was really a shocker. Was this intended to be a blanket indictment of all of them?

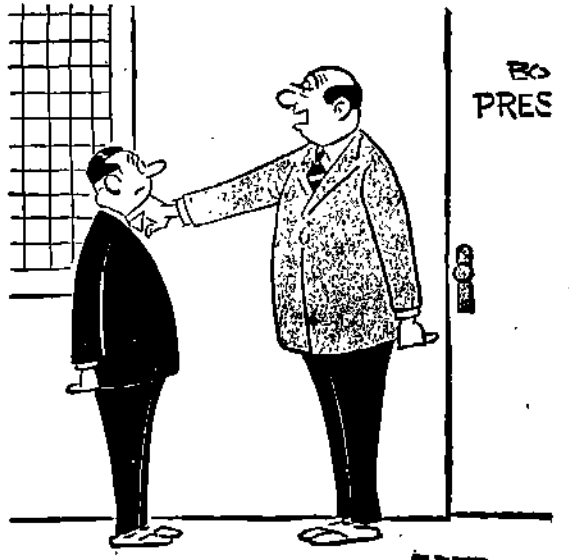

Come now, Mr. Editor, would you have your readers believe that our Unicameral members are individually or collectively superior to our men in Congress? And if so, is this by reason of their having been elected on a non-partisan basis?

Such an inference downgrades the intelligence of thousands of good citizens over the state who volunteer countless hours of time and thousands of hard-earned dollars to elect men whom they can trust to carry out the well-defined principles made possible by party choice.

Most of the criticism of partisanship in elections comes from inexperienced people who have never assumed responsibility in carrying out a successful campaign.

Which Way Should We Go?

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Those who advocate a change to a partisan legislature make a number of interesting points in behalf of their proposal. These points generally fall into two categories — political organization and the enactment of legislation. It is argued that Nebraska would have a stronger, more vibrant political system and would have a more productive and responsive legislature if we elected senators on a political ballot.

Perhaps all of this is true, although it is by no means a matter of unanimous agreement, but if it is, it needs some additional exploration. On the political side, it is said that the issue is not one of control of the legislature but a matter of reliance upon the two-party system that has served this nation so well throughout its history. This two-party system is not about to be condemned here as it certainly is the finest political order that exists today for holding together a nation of diverse interests while it guarantees to all citizens the maximum freedom and independence.

But the two-party system does not have to be applied at all places and at all levels of government in order to prove its merits. If it demanded such universal application, we should have it throughout our judicial system and in every city and school district of the nation. It is not, of course, in such widespread use and no one advocates that it be given such prominence.

Thus, the question of whether it is used involves a great deal of uncertainty rather than pure political fact or political science theory. Many people would favor a change in our electoral college system of electing a president of this nation but such a change certainly seems to be a long way off.

The electoral system survives, for one thing, simply because it is with us and changes on such a large scale as the national scene just are hard to come by. It survives, too, for a lot of other reasons, some political and some based on what are believed to be solid theories of government. And this brings us to the second argument used in behalf of a partisan legislature. This argument is a little more difficult to analyze. It is based in the thought that the history of our non-partisan legislature is a poor one from a legislative point of view — that the legislature has not moved the state as it would have been moved if there were available the leadership tool of a partisan body.

To this we will agree, but this is about as far as agreement would go. Exactly what sort of action is it that would be preferred by those who want a partisan legislature? One Nebraska editor has said, along with other criticisms, that because of our non-partisan status, we must "endure the longest and most inept legislative sessions across the land." Of great interest to all should be the reference to the ineptness of the legislature. This suggests—and critics of the present system are generally strong on this point — that the legislature has failed in giving this state the programs it needs to meet the challenges of the times. Yet, many of those who oppose the system on this ground can be found in opposition to a great deal of that which is suggested as an answer to current problems.

Do those who want a change to partisanship want less government or more government? Has the legislature failed because it has not done enough or because it is prone to do too much? It is our opinion that it has not done enough but we are quite aware of the existence of considerable opinion to the contrary.

Has the legislature failed because it has not provided state aid to education, has not broadened the tax base, has not provided our institutions with many of the facilities they need, has maintained a tight hold on all pursestrings, has not stepped up our highway program, has starved efforts toward industrial expansion, has refused to effectively push school consolidation?

We believe a great many who want a partisan legislature would not want affirmative action in any of the above areas. We believe they would not want affirmative action, period, in just about any field of possible legislation you could mention. What they want is lower taxation and fewer government programs.

Those who advocate a change in the system of electing state senators should give some specific examples of where they believe the legislature has failed in the past so all can see what their idea of improving the situation might be.

It is highly doubtful that we would improve things with a change in our system. The only way for any state to make progress is for its people to have enough faith and confidence in its future to invest in it in terms of programs and facilities that make that state a rewarding place in which to live. This isn't accomplished through any magic system, but through the attitude and thinking of the people themselves. To change our system would be just another escape from reality.

No Desire For Action

The Beleaguered City

As a city Washington, D.C. is an anomaly. It is government ridden, not municipally but federally speaking.

For all practical purposes the permanent citizens enjoy hardly more franchise than that of voting on the weather. Congress has much more to say.

It is true that Congress appropriates money for the city. But it also expands the government and creates a steadily increasing municipal burden for which it frequently fails to compensate by proportionate increases in its municipal allowance.

In 1921 the federal government paid 50 per cent of the city's budget. Currently it is paying about 12 per cent.

Washington city officials claim they have about exhausted their taxing resources and their part of the city is declining.

There is no way to divorce Washington

from its novel relationship with the seat of federal government for that was the reason for its original establishment. But there is good sense in requiring a greater financial responsibility on the part of Congress for a city that must not only be a city but a municipal showcase for what is now the most potent nation in the world.

President Kennedy has recognized this and has recommended a more realistic formula by which the federal share of the city's financial burden can be computed. Legislation expressing the formula has been introduced in Congress. This is one item that would expand the federal budget by a few million annually which will actually find few critics among the nation's taxpayers. If Congress is not aware of this then it would be a good act of citizenship to originate a post card shower addressed to the lawmakers.

The Sounds Of War

One Navy officer testifying in regard to what proved to be the last communication with the ill fated submarine Thresher said he detected over the hydrophone the sound of "a ship breaking up — like a compartment collapsing." The testimony has not been corroborated by any other witnesses and other Navy officers have said they had never before heard of the "breaking up" sound described.

The Navy may or may not give much credence to the report of this sound but there isn't any question that war has many sounds that are unique. In fact, sound is a major part of any war as it is a by-product of the destructive power that has been unleashed by a nation against an enemy. And those who have been close to war in any capacity know for themselves the sounds that carry with them a certain fear.

Either at sea or on the land, the noise of heavy gunfire or exploding bombs was ample notice of the danger that existed. Sight, perhaps, was next as the eyes of men watched the terrible desolation spread in the waging of war. There were times when the sky would be lit up with the force of bombs and exploding materials that were the tools of war. And there were times when the sight and sound were only the quiet of death.

The testimony as to the sound of the Thresher "breaking up" may be a questionable fact that it should cause the millions who have heard such sounds and seen such things as are the marks of war to renew their dedication to the achievement of a lasting peace. It must be peace with honor, of course, but there is no effort too great to make when one remembers the awful consequences of past wars and considers the even more dreadful consequences of any future conflagration.

Thurmond Meets With Reverse

WASHINGTON—The first secret session of the Senate since World War II was supposed to be so secret that any member divulging its contents would be expelled from the Senate. However, this column can report some of the details of the debate plus two general conclusions reached by other senators:

1. The four and half hours of debate was a waste of time.

2. The Senate needs a watchdog committee to disqualify senators who may profit personally from certain votes. In this case, Sen. Strom Thurmond, the South Carolina Dixiecrat who carried the ball for the Army's missile program, is an Army reserve major general. He was the man who raised such a furor in favor of Gen. Edwin Walker, the John Birchir who was repatriated for teaching John Birch ideas to his troops and later was charged with inciting the riots at Oxford, Miss.

Friends say Maj. Gen. Strom Thurmond would like to be promoted to the rank of lieutenant general. The secret session first required 45 minutes to iron out parliamentary tangles before the real debate could begin.

Sen. Thurmond then made a vigorous and detailed speech proposing that $196,000,000 cut earlier from the military spending authorization bill, be restored. This money originally was to speed up development of the Nike-Zeus anti-missile missile designed to knock down inter-continental missiles launched from an enemy country before they hit targets in the United States.

The most awesome prospect in modern war is the hurrying of these giant missiles over the top of the world by the U.S.A. and USSR, capable of knocking out the major cities on both sides in thirty minutes.

The senator from South Carolina gave an intelligence report on Russian missiles—the only part of the entire Senate debate which should have been off-the-record — indicating that Russia could knock our Polaris missiles out of the air, possibly also our long-range Minuteman.

After he had finished, Sen. Dick Russell, D-Ga., made oratorical mince-meat of his fellow southern Democrat. Russell is longtime chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee and knows his missiles.

He disclosed the fact that out of 90 times the Nike-Zeus had been fired, it had come close to target only three times. And this was when its launchers knew the angle at which the feigned enemy missile was coming in.

Sen. Jim Eastland of Mississippi joined Russell in sharply quizzing Thurmond, who finally agreed that the American anti-missile system was superior to the Russian.

At the end of the long closed-door debate, the Senate voted Thurmond down, 58 to 16; following which Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., moved to change the rules so it would no longer be possible for two senators to call a secret session.

South, West Are Rightist Bastions

WASHINGTON — These Easter holidays were never more beautiful in Washington than Senator Frank Moss (D-Utah) finds little time to relax. He breakfasted Monday with men interested in his campaign for re-election next year, lunched with a political correspondent, and after checking carefully with his office to be sure all visiting firemen from Utah were happy here, arranged with his wife to dine with some of them.

Far from complaining, he is glad of the chances such schedules afford him to air his problems and accomplishments. He had realized the problems might be numerous. Utah likes Republicans, too, and last year re-elected Senator Wallace Bennett against the vigorous opposition of former Rep. David King. The state has a Republican governor, George Clyde.

Its money goes further in such states. The congress-sional incumbents it seeks to unseat must travel far and hard to catch up with it. Such incumbents also find it hard to get a due share of attention from the great national centers of communication.

The embattled senators of the area who must currently compete with the right wing are more or less liberal Democrats. They are of vital concern to the party in the West, which hopes to become more important and powerful in Washington as the West grows in population and the South starts to secede to the Republicans.

But Republicans have an important stake, too, in the right-wing strategy. Its success would more and more tend to brand them as extreme conservatives, a label not helpful in presidential elections and in big states generally.

The right wing may be content to exercise a veto power over the President by way of a conservative coalition in Congress. No national party can long survive without sometimes exercising majority power in Congress and control of the presidency.

Dispatches from the different western and southwestern capitals indicate that the situation is different in each but some factors are common. There is always the effort to get the biggest and best state educational institutions under right-wing control. Incumbents to the left of Senator Goldwater can count on a vigorous, well-financed challenge.

The sweeping assertion in your April 10 editorial about Nebraska's "sorry representation" in Washington was really a shocker. Was this intended to be a blanket indictment of all of them?

Come now, Mr. Editor, would you have your readers believe that our Unicameral members are individually or collectively superior to our men in Congress? And if so, is this by reason of their having been elected on a non-partisan basis?

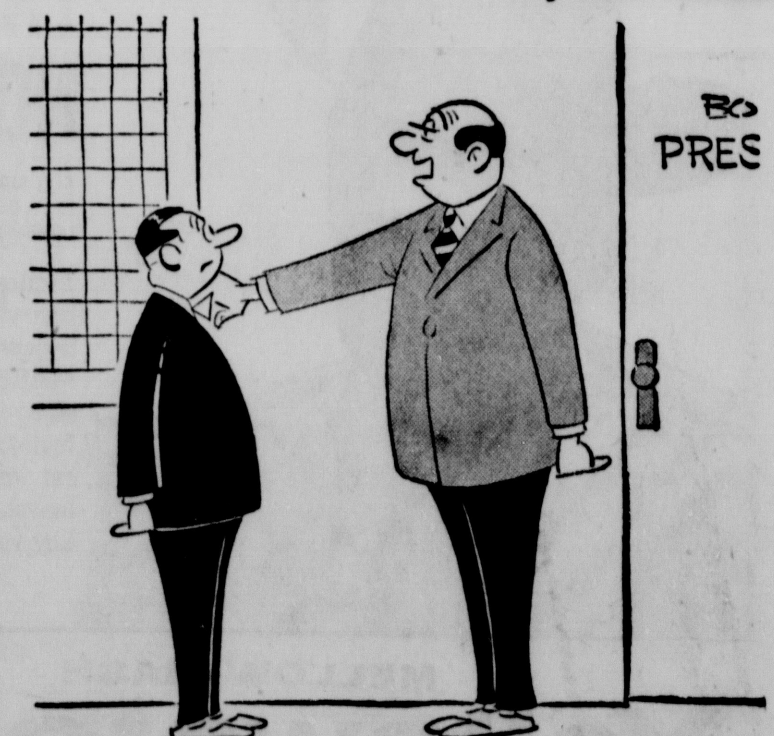

Such an inference downgrades the intelligence of thousands of good citizens over the state who volunteer countless hours of time and thousands of hard-earned dollars to elect men whom they can trust to carry out the well-defined principles made possible by party choice.

Most of the criticism of partisanship in elections comes from inexperienced people who have never assumed responsibility in carrying out a successful campaign.

OFF THE RECORD

1st Woman Bosses 'Greatest Show'

New York (U) — A port blonde stepped bliskly to the side of Madison Square Garden's arena Tuesday afternoon, blew her whistle and "The Greatest Show on Earth" was underway.

"This marked the first time that a woman ever took the role of 'boss' during a performance of Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey Circus, and it was a huge job for blue-eyed, English-born Maggie Smith.

Maggie, 32, a 17 year show business veteran, is the circus' performance director. She is boss. When she toots her whistle people, animals and vehicles move to keep the 2 1/2 hour show going at a brisk pace.

Job Distinct

Her job is distinct from that of ringmaster and equine director. Both take their cues from her, and she gets hers from a silver stop watch clutched in her hand.

Standing alongside ringmaster Harold Runk, who is attired in the traditional high, silk black hat, red cutaway coat and black trousers, she presents a different picture. She wears a black, round pill-box hat and a white tuxedo cutaway jacket and black skirt.

But she ushers around more than 300 performers and 160 animals including elephants, monkeys and the ever popular circus menagerie.

She must be ready to take charge if there is an emergency or mishap during the show. Her judgment can be the difference between success or tragedy.

'Big Job'

"Big job," she said, echoing a question "Yes it's a big job, but I don't mind it, not in the least. In fact, right now I love it, I love everything about it." And her sparkling blue eyes emphasized her joy.

"This is the job everyone strives for. It's what you dream of becoming when you join the circus. It's a great achievement but something I hoped and dreamed would happen ever since I came here."

That was in 1952, after 7 years, 4 in England, as part of a 5 girl tumbling and trampoline act. The act made its American debut in 1949 on the Milton Berle television show, then played at the Palace Theatre and in night clubs and smaller circuses.

The troupe performed for 3 years with Ringling Brothers, before she took over duties in choreography and became aerial ballet director for the circus.

That was the job she held until Monday, and it is the job to which she'll return next week when regular performance director Robert Dover comes back from a European trip.

MARGARET SMITH . . . cracks the whip.

When he returns to make final arrangements in late June, Maggie will step in again as performance director.

What about her nerves, someone asked before she began her first show.

"Oh boy do I have a case of the butterflies," she said, laughing. But then, why shouldn't I? I've never been so nervous in all my life."

Kidnaped Son Is Returned

Guatemala (U) — The 38-year-old son of a prominent Guatemalan — reported kidnaped April 4—has been returned with the payment of the equivalent of $75,000 in ransom, his family reported Tuesday.

Ramiro Samayoa had reported that his son, Jorge, was seized and taken away by persons demanding $100,000 in ransom.

The family reported Tuesday that a family friend, Ricardo Rodriguez, paid off the alleged kidnapers and brought Jorge home Monday night.

Samayoa, a wealthy real estate dealer and movie house owner, is a close friend of deposed President Miguel Ydigoras.

A spokesman for Guatemala's new military regime asserted the kidnap story was a fake and that it was given out as a political trick.

Arabs To Mix Marx, Socialism, Democracy

Carro (U) — Egypt, Syria and Iraq Tuesday formally proclaimed their intention to form a unified nation based on a mixture of Arab socialism, Western democracy and bits of Karl Marx.

In a final communique ending a 10 day meeting, President Gamal Abdel Nasser and delegates from the other two Arab countries outlined principles for a future constitution and a national charter stating the philosophy of the new United Arab Republic.

While the charter rang with Marxist condemnation of capitalism, imperialism and reaction, the principles of the new constitution were clearly drawn from European parliamentarianism plus the American Constitution.

The communique also indicated that formation of the new state uniting 38 million people will be a long affair, with the actual constitution yet to be written and the whole thing to be presented later to a plebiscite of the 3 states.

On paper, the new state guarantees freedoms of speech, religion and the press more substantial than any now enjoyed by the citizens of the 3 nations.

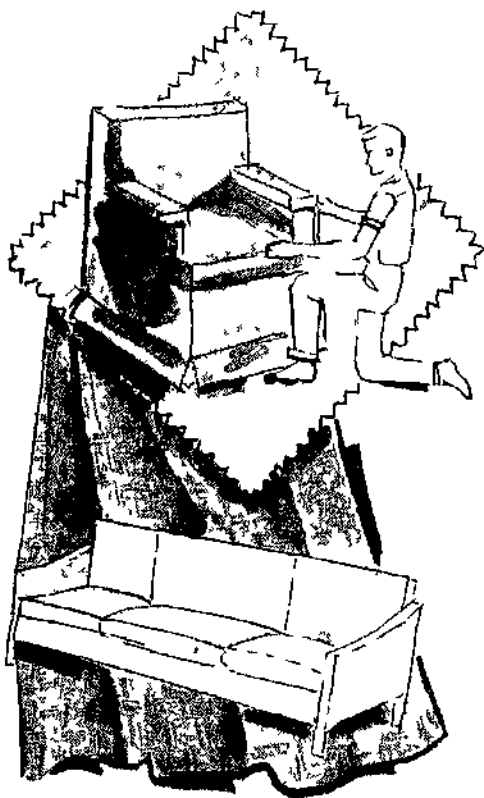

The new state will have a single president and a two-house legislative system—one house resembling the American Senate and the other a European chamber of deputies. One house will be named by proportional representation, and in the other each state will have equal representation. Both houses would elect a president, said the communique.

Neutral Forces Suffer Setback

Vientiane, Laos (AP) — Neutralist forces suffered a setback Tuesday in the struggle with the pro-Communist Pathet Lao in the east-central highlands, increasing fears that all-out civil war may again engulf Laos.

Neutralist sources said the Pathet Lao drove Neutralist troops from Ban Kosi, a stronghold on the main road between Xieng Khouang and the nearby Plaine des Jarres. They retreated along a jungle path to Ban Bouna, south of the road, perhaps to try another stand.

It was the first withdrawal by the Neutralist forces of Gen. Kong Le since the collapse of a cease-fire shortly after it was arranged on Sunday.

Troops trapped

The Neutralist troops have been trapped along the main road since they were driven out of the provincial capital of Xieng Khouang on April 7.

Apparently Kong Le's units were striving desperately to link up with others at Dong Danh, the only other Neutralist post on the road between Xieng Khouang and the Plaine des Jarres, where the bulk of Kong Le's 5,000 troops are encamped. Dong Danh is 6 miles west of Ban Kosi and 7 1/2 miles from the mountain-ridged Plaine des Jarres.

Resident Neutralist forces now lined up with Pathet Lao Gen. Sinkapo Chounramany occupying Lathuang, west of Dong Danh, making a retreat impossible along the main road.

Neutralist sources described the atmosphere at Kong Le's headquarters as tense. He held an urgent meeting with his staff officers to map out strategy for rushing reinforcements to rescue his troops at Ban Bouna.

Mac Joins Spy Chase

London (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan took a personal hand Tuesday in the search for "The Spies for Peace," ban-the-bomb extremists who made public important civil defense secrets.

Angered by this latest breach in security, Macmillan cut his Easter holiday short and hurried back to London from Birch Grove, his country home in Sussex.

The prime minister and Home Secretary Henry Brooke met behind closed doors discussing a problem bound to create a storm in parliament.

While they talked, Scotland Yard agents pressed a search for those responsible for pre-pamphlet describing official arrangements for running Britain in the event of a nuclear attack.

Many of the detectives were disguised as beatniks, complete with blue jeans, beards and musical instruments.

The pamphlets were distributed in the name of an action group called "Spies for Peace" to the thousands of Aldermaston to London ban-the-bomb marchers over the Easter holiday.

The march was sponsored by the Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament. Leaders quickly dissociated themselves, however, from the distribution of the pamphlets and from the clashes with police that occurred in London's West End.

During the struggles 74 marchers were arrested.

Two companies of about 150 Neutralist troops with 3 tanks had been holding at Ban Kosi. Informants said Kong Le's unwillingness to give up Ban Kosi and Dong Danh led to the collapse of the cease-fire arranged by Prince Souvanna Phouma, Neutralist premier of the coalition government, in meetings with Kong Le and the Pathet Lao commander.

The informants said he agreed at first to the withdrawal, then changed his mind. The Pathet Lao contended that the Neutralist forces on the road threatened supply lines from their headquarters at Khang Khay to Xieng Khouang.

2 NU Students Get Scholarships

Baton Rouge, La. —Two University of Nebraska juniors — Del Rae Beerman of Dakota City and Larry Axthelm of Lincoln — were awarded $250 Pfizer 4-H scholarships here Tuesday.

The awards were presented at the annual National Extension Training Conference, in session at Louisiana State University.

Miss Beerman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Beerman who farm near Dakota City. Axthelm is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Axthelm of Glenwood Springs, Colo., who formerly operated a dairy farm south of Lincoln.

A University of Nebraska staff member, Barnett A. McClendon is one of 30 language instructors in the nation selected to receive a fellowship under the Fulbright-Hays program for 6 weeks of study abroad this summer.

McClendon, a staff member since 1957, is completing work for his Ph.D. degree and will study this summer at Burgos, Spain. The fellowship provides tuition and travel

A GENTLE HAND COMFORTS

A hand reaches in to comfort 10-year-old Craig S. Raichart as he awaits the arrival of the ambulance. Young Craig received minor injuries when he rode his bicycle through a stop sign and collided with a passing automobile in Denver, Colo.

N.Y. Judge Won't Quit His Post

New York (AP) — Judge Melvin H. Osterman, involved in a grand jury probe of state liquor scandals, defiantly refused Tuesday to resign from the Court of Claims. He accused Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of prejudging his case.

Rockefeller, who appointed Osterman to the $26,000-a-year judgeship in 1961, immediately moved for his ouster through the Court on the Judiciary, a tribunal of top state jurists who are empowered to remove a judge for misconduct.

Rockefeller had ordered Osterman to resign, or face possible ouster, for his refusal to fully waive immunity and to testify freely before the Manhattan grand jury. Both men are Republicans.

In reply, Osterman said through his attorney, Harris B. Steinberg, that he preferred to take his chances with the Court on the Judiciary, rather than "be subjected to the open 'hydraulic pressures' of prejudgment by the governor."

Osterman, 59, was the 3rd major GOP figure involved in the burgeoning grand jury probe of purported bribery and graft involving the State Liquor Authority's licensing and supervision of taverns and package stores in metropolitan New York.

Barnet, England (UPI) — Three persons were killed when a truck and a bus collided on a stretch of road known as "the bloody mile."

'NEW GOVERNMENT TO BE ORGANIZED IN CUBA MAY 1'

Los Angeles (AP) — A resistance government will be declared in Cuba May 1, followed by a national uprising at a later date, a Cuban exile said Tuesday.

Jose Norman, a former coffee plantation owner in Cuba, said he has word that a Republic of Cuba in Arms will be declared by an underground group now operating in Cuba.

Norman said this government will consist of men now directing the resistance in Cuba as well as Cuban leaders now in exile who will leave for the island when the government is declared.

This government, Norman said, will designate representatives to other nations, the Organization of American States and the United Nations.

Norman said he got his information from a document received by his niece, Leonor Dacey, Los Angeles delegate of the Christian Democratic Youth of Cuba. The document, Norman said, was issued by an organization in Cuba called the organization for a National Uprising.

Norman said he was a columnist for two papers in Cuba — the Havana Post and the Times in Havana — before he left the island in 1960.

A British subject, Norman is married to the daughter of the former Cuban consul general at Liverpool, Gen. Enanorado Garcia. She is the granddaughter of Gen. Calixto Garcia of "message to Garcia" fame, Norman said.

Norman and his wife now live in Los Angeles.

Niobrara Bridge Contract Goes To Lincoln Company

Bassett (UPI) — A contract for construction of a bridge across the Niobrara River about 14 miles northeast of here was awarded to the Capital Bridge Co. of Lincoln.

Capital's bid was slightly over $47,000.

Rock County Clerk Mrs. Mildred Hasch disclosed that the Lincoln firm had been awarded the contract.

The old bridge, known as the Carus Bridge, was washed out by high water last June.

Lutz Proposes City Acquiring Of Post Office

Richard Lutz, candidate for City Council, Tuesday proposed "the quickest and most economical way" for Lincoln to have a new city-county building is to "push hard for acquisition of the U.S. Post Office building."

"Federal authorities are now making a survey to determine whether to build a large, new federal office building which could include the new post office," Lutz said in a prepared statement.

"If this building is built, the old Post Office building may be offered to the city for $1. This present Post Office building could be remodeled into a fine city-county building."

Less Cost

Lutz said the remodeling costs would be far less than building a new building.

Calling the antiquated City Hall building and "phone-booth size" Municipal Court chambers a disgrace to the city, Lutz said he would work for his proposal if elected a councilman.

"The overcrowded conditions under which city employees must work can only cause poor morale and inefficiency which cost the taxpayers money."

"When you consider the same situation exists at the County Courthouse, you double the cost to the taxpayers."

Lutz said Lincoln can assist federal authorities in selecting a site for the new federal office building, suggesting the present Courthouse block or blocks east of 17th between K and L.

"Lincoln should show an interest in this federal project and offer every assistance to a project which could give Lincoln both a new federal building and a new city-county building," he concluded.

Dosek Promoted To Lt. Colonel

Edwin F. Dosek of 1725 Skyline Drive, a lawyer, was promoted to lieutenant colonel in the Army Reserve effective Feb. 8, 1963.

Dosek will serve as an inspector general with Headquarters Army Materiel Command, Washington, D.C., and will continue his law practice in Lincoln.

GRANT ASYLUM TO RED PIANIST

London (AP)—Vladimir Askaniy, Soviet concert pianist, and his wife have been granted political asylum in Britain, the Home Office announced Tuesday night.

Askaniy, one of the brilliant younger generation of Soviet pianists, arrived in Britain early this year for a concert tour.

His Icelandic-born wife, who had lived for some time in Britain, applied for permission to take up residence again. This was granted, the Home Office spokesman said.

"In accordance with normal practice this meant that Mr. Askaniy was also admitted."

FORMER IMAM SAYS HE WILL STAY IN YEMEN

Aden (AP) — The former Imam of Yemen, Mohammed Al-Badr, said Tuesday he was determined to stay in Yemen "until the last drop of his blood," the South Arabian News Agency reported.

Quoting royalist radio reports, the agency said that the Imam denied rumors that he was planning to go into exile, possibly in Italy.

The agency said royalist radio messages had reported fierce fighting in north eastern Yemen with forces of the republican regime that overthrew him last year. The Republican Radio San'a asserted that 500 royalist infiltrators had been killed in a battle in the northeast sector.

YMCA Starts Walking-Mile Fitness Plan

A new YMCA fitness program started Tuesday as people across the country began taking one-mile walks over charted courses.

Dr. John Thompson of the Lincoln YMCA said it will coordinate its activities with the new program and encourage service groups, clubs and other local organizations to participate.

YMCA organizations have a marked off one-mile routes to encourage businessmen and others to "walk their way to fitness," said Dr. Harold T. Friermood, national YMCA health director.

Dr. Thompson said the Lincoln organization will designate several routes soon.

The Lincoln YMCA will also organize a "Century Club" for those who have walked a mile more than 100 times.

Dr. Thompson added that one-mile walks practiced regularly are more beneficial than longer walks taken less often. The Measured Mile is endorsed by Dr. Paul Dudley White, Boston heart specialist, who recommends a minimum of 3 mile walks daily.

Neutral Forces Suffer Setback

Vientiane, Laos (AP) — Neutralist forces suffered more setbacks Tuesday in the struggle with the pro-Communist Pathet Lao in the east-central highlands, increasing fears that all-out civil war may again engulf Laos.

Neutralist sources said the Pathet Lao drove Neutralist troops from Ban Kosi, a stronghold on the main road between Xieng Khouang and the nearby Plaine des Jarres. They retreated along a jungle path to Ban Boua, south of the road, perhaps to try another stand.

It was the first withdrawal by the Neutralist forces of Gen. Kong Le since the collapse of a cease-fire shortly after it was arranged on Sunday.

Troops trapped

The Neutralist troops have been trapped along the main road since they were driven out of the provincial capital of Xieng Khouang on April 7.

Apparently Kong Le's units were striving desperately to link up with others at Dong Danh, the only other Neutralist post on the road between Xieng Khouang and the Plaine des Jarres, where the bulk of Kong Le's 5,000 troops are encamped. Dong Danh is 6 miles west of Ban Kosi and 7½ miles from the mountain-ringed Plaine des Jarres.

Dissident Neutralist forces now lined up with Pathet Lao Gen. Sinkapo Chounnamany occupying Lathuang, west of Dong Danh, making a retreat impossible along the main road.

Neutralist sources described the atmosphere at Kone Le's headquarters as tense. He held an urgent meeting with his staff officers to map out strategy for rushing reinforcements to rescue his troops at Ban Boua.

Still Holding

Two companies of about 150 Neutralist troops with 3 tanks had been holding at Ban Kosi.

Informants said Kong Le's unwillingness to give up Ban Kosi and Dong Danh led to the collapse of the cease-fire arranged by Prince Souvanna Phouma, Neutralist premier of the coalition government, in meetings with Kong Le and the Pathet Lao commander.

2 NU Students Get Scholarships

Baton Rouge, La. — Two University of Nebraska juniors — Del Rae Beerman of Dakota City and Larry Axthelm of Lincoln — were awarded $250 Pfizer 4-H scholarships here Tuesday.

The awards were presented at the annual National Extension Training Conference, in session at Louisiana State University.

Miss Beerman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Beerman who farm near Dakota City. Axthelm is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Axthelm of Glenwood Springs, Colo., who formerly operated a dairy farm south of Lincoln.

N.Y. Judge Won't Quit His Post

New York (AP) — Judge Melvin H. Osterman, involved in a grand jury probe of state liquor scandals, defiantly refused Tuesday to resign from the Court of Claims. He accused Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of prejudging his case.

Rockefeller, who appointed Osterman to the $26,000-a-year judgeship in 1961, immediately moved for his ouster through the Court on the Judiciary, a tribunal of top state jurists who are empowered to remove a judge for misconduct.

Rockefeller had ordered Osterman to resign, or face possible ouster, for his refusal to fully waive immunity and to testify freely before the Manhattan grand jury. Both men are Republicans.

In reply, Osterman said through his attorney, Harris B. Steinberg, that he preferred to take his chances with the Court on the Judiciary, rather than "be subjected to the open 'hydraulic pressures' of prejudgment by the governor."

Osterman, 59, was the 3rd major GOP figure involved in the burgeoning grand jury probe of purported bribery and graft involving the State Liquor Authority's licensing and supervision of taverns and package stores in metropolitan New York.

'NEW GOVERNMENT TO BE ORGANIZED IN CUBA MAY 1'

Los Angeles (AP) — A resistance government will be declared in Cuba May 1, followed by a national uprising at a later date, a Cuban exile said Tuesday.

Jose Norman, a former coffee plantation owner in Cuba, said he has word that a Republic of Cuba in Arms will be declared by an underground group now operating in Cuba.

Norman said this government will consist of men now directing the resistance in Cuba as well as Cuban leaders now in exile who will leave for the island when the government is declared.

This government, Norman said, will designate representatives to other nations, the Organization of American States and the United Nations.

Norman said he got his information from a document received by his niece, Leonor Daley, Los Angeles delegate of the Christian Democratic Youth of Cuba. The document, Norman said, was issued by an organization in Cuba called the organization for a National Uprising.

Norman said he was a columnist for two papers in Cuba — the Havana Post and the Times in Havana — before he left the island in 1960.

A British subject, Norman is married to the daughter of the former Cuban consul general at Liverpool, Gen. Enanorodo Garcia. She is the granddaughter of Gen. Calixto Garcia of "message to Garcia" fame, Norman said.

Norman and his wife now live in Los Angeles.

Niobrara Bridge Contract Goes To Lincoln Company

Bassett (UPI) — A contract for construction of a bridge across the Niobrara River about 14 miles northeast of here was awarded to the Capital Bridge Co. of Lincoln.

Capital's bid was slightly over $47,000.

Rock County Clerk Mrs. Mildred Hasch disclosed that the Lincoln firm had been awarded the contract. The old bridge, known as the Carns Bridge, was washed out by high water last June.

Find 2nd Bullet In General's Body; Wife Says He Shot Self

Atlanta (UPI)—A second bullet wound was belatedly found Tuesday in the body of an Air National Guard general. His wife earlier told police the general shot himself during a family fracas over her failure to fill out their income tax return on time.

Police had dropped their investigation in the belief Brig. Gen. Bernard Michael Davey, 47, had either committed suicide or shot himself accidentally after slightly wounding his 45-year-old wife, Martha,

BRIG. GEN. DAVEY

Found Dead

Davey, senior officer of the Georgia Air National Guard and commander of the 118th Air Transport Wing at nearby Dobbins Air Force Base, was found dead Monday night in the bedroom of his fashionable Northside home.

Mrs. Davey, who was wounded in the hip, told police her husband came home about 10 o'clock Monday night and went into a rage when he discovered that she had not completed their federal income tax return. Monday was the deadline for filing.

She said he slapped her and pushed her around, ripped a telephone wire out of the wall and told her he "was going to show her who was boss of the family."

Took Out Pistol

Mrs. Davey said the general then pushed her into their bedroom and took a 25-caliber pearl handle pistol from a chest.

The woman told Det. M. H. Medert that she saw a "two-inch blue flame" dart from the barrel. She said Davey appeared to turn his ankle and fell backward.

Medert said Mrs. Davey only remembered the shot which struck her in the hip. But he said 3 shots were fired from the pistol. One hit Davey in the chest, and it was this wound that was first discovered.

In announcing that a second bullet wound had been found, Dillon said:

Uncertain

"The exact circumstances under which these gunshot wounds were inflicted is uncertain at this point and we are working on that part of it now."

Mrs. Davey meanwhile, was reported in good condition at a local hospital.

Davey had been a charter member of the Georgia Air National Guard which was formed in 1941. He went into active service with the unit that same year and after completing flight training flew 22 combat missions over Europe as a bomber pilot during World War II.

He rejoined the reactivated

Georgia Air National Guard in 1946 as a captain and had risen to the rank of lieutenant colonel when the outfit was recalled to active duty during the Korean War.

He became commander of the 116th Air Transport Wing in 1952, was promoted to full colonel shortly thereafter and promoted to brigadier general in 1947.

Withholding Federal Funds From Mississippi Is Urged

Washington (AP)—The Civil Rights Commission urged President Kennedy Tuesday to explore his legal authority to withhold federal funds from the state of Mississippi as a means of protecting the rights of its Negro citizens.

In a special unanimous report, the commission said that although the administration had taken "strong and vigorous action" to prosecute violators of federal laws, the pattern of what the commission called unlawful activity shows no sign of abating.

Because of this, the commission said, it was urging that further steps be taken to halt the "subversion of the Constitution in Mississippi."

Chairman John A. Hannah sent the report to the President at his Palm Beach, Fla., vacation home.

The commission said that according to available information federal payments to Mississippi totaled more than $650 million in the fiscal year ended last June 30, and that military payroll and contracts were a major factor in the state's economy.

Fire Guts Home In Trailer, Burns Family's Effects

A fire gutted Mrs. Irene Hackstadt's trailer home at 2801 No. 26th early Tuesday and destroyed most of the family possessions.

Firemen said the blaze started when one of Mrs. Hackstadt's 4 children lighted an oil furnace containing an excess amount of fuel oil.

Flames flew out of the furnace registers and set the furniture afire, a report said.

One of the children, Rother, injured his right ankle, and a Red Cross worker took him to a private physician.

BRIG. GEN. DAVEY

Found Dead
Davey, senior officer of the Georgia Air National Guard and commander of the 116th Air Transport Wing at nearby Dobbins Air Force Base, was found dead Monday night in the bedroom of his fashionable Northside home.

Mrs. Davey, who was wounded in the hip, told police her husband came home about 10 o'clock Monday night and went into a rage when he discovered that she had not completed their federal income tax return. Monday was the deadline for filing.

She said he slapped her and pushed her around, ripped a telephone wire out of the wall and told her he "was going to show her who was boss of the family."

Took Out Pistol
Mrs. Davey said the general then pushed her into their bedroom and took a 25-caliber, pearl handle pistol from a chest.

The woman told Det. M. H. Medart that she saw a "two-inch blue flame" dart from the barrel. She said Davey appeared to turn his ankle and fell backward.

Medart said Mrs. Davey only remembered the shot which struck her in the hip. But he said 3 shots were fired from the pistol. One hit Davey in the chest, and it was this wound that was first discovered.

In announcing that a second bullet wound had been found, Dillon said:

Uncertain
"The exact circumstances under which these gunshot wounds were inflicted is uncertain at this point and we are working on that part of it now."

Mrs. Davey meanwhile, was reported in good condition at a local hospital.

Davey had been a charter member of the Georgia Air National Guard which was formed in 1941. He went into active service with the unit that same year and after completing flight training flew 22 combat missions over Europe as a bomber pilot during World War II.

He rejoined the reactivated

Georgia Air National Guard in 1946 as a captain and had risen to the rank of lieutenant colonel when the outfit was recalled to active duty during the Korean War.

He became commander of the 116th Air Transport Wing in 1952, was promoted to full colonel shortly thereafter and promoted to brigadier general in 1947.

Withholding Federal Funds From Mississippi Is Urged

Washington (AP)—The Civil Rights Commission urged President Kennedy Tuesday to explore his legal authority to withhold federal funds from the state of Mississippi as a means of protecting the rights of its Negro citizens.

In a special unanimous report, the commission said that although the administration had taken "strong and vigorous action" to prosecute violators of federal laws, the pattern of what the commission called unlawful activity shows no sign of abating.

Chairman John A. Hannah sent the report to the President at his Palm Beach, Fla., vacation home.

The commission said that according to available information federal payments to Mississippi totaled more than $650 million in the fiscal year ended last June 30, and that military payroll and contracts were a major factor in the state's economy.

Fire Guts Home In Trailer, Burns Family's Effects

A fire gutted Mrs. Irene Hackstadt's trailer home at 2801 No. 26th early Tuesday and destroyed most of the family possessions.

Firemen said the blaze started when one of Mrs. Hackstadt's 4 children lighted an oil furnace containing an excess amount of fuel oil.

Flames flew out of the furnace registers and set the furniture afire, a report said.

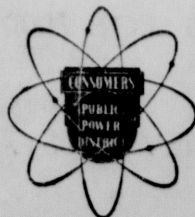

One of the children, Rothie, injured his right ankle, and a Red Cross worker took him to a private physician.

University Tightening Admission

The University of Nebraska is now requiring graduates of non-accredited state high schools to take an entrance examination for admission. Dean of Student Affairs G. Robert Ross revealed Tuesday.

But "except in very unusual circumstances, we do not plan to deny admission," Ross said.

There are 100 approved but non-accredited high schools in 47 counties listed in the current Nebraska education directory. The accrediting agency is the State Department of Education.

Constant Check

The university plans to maintain a constant check on the progress of its students from non-accredited high schools.

Graduates from non-accredited high schools will have several test options:

— They can, at their own expense, take examinations like the American College Test, the National Merit Test or the College Board Test.

— They can take the University's Regents Examination administered in the high schools.

— They can come to Lincoln and take a comprehensive test given by the university free of charge.

Teachers Too

Dr. Freeman Decker, coordinator of state normal colleges, said the teachers colleges also may tighten their admission practices. He said this matter will be "a discussion for the board in the near future."

Up to now, both the university and the 4 state teacher colleges have accepted graduates of any Nebraska high school regardless of its accreditation status.

State Sen. Clifton Foster of Bradshaw recently disclosed a 3-year internal study at NU which matched results of 13,906 Regents Exam test scores with the type of schools the students graduated from.

Rating Parallel

The cases in all 3 years paralleled the State Education Department's accreditation ratings. Students from AA accredited schools had the highest marks on the average, while those from schools not accredited generally had the lowest marks, according to the report.

Ross said he believes "in the same general sense, success in college will follow a similar pattern."

As things now stand, the university's new policy means that every graduate from a Class VI school district will have to take the entrance test. Class VI districts provide high school education only.

Under Pressure

The State Board of Education in past years has refused to accredit any Class VI districts. The state board has been under pressure recently from the Nebraska School Improvement Association (NSIA) to reverse this position.

The NSIA represents mostly rural residents who are affected by the board's stand against accreditation of Class VI districts.

Recently, though, the state board asked the state accreditation committee to review this policy toward Class VI schools and report back its findings.

The committee works in conjunction with the state board on accreditation matters.

Burney Not Happy With Mere Dignity

By DAN McNULTY
Associated Press

The thing Lt. Gov. Dwight Burney likes the least about his job as presiding officer of the State Legislature is the fact the position holds more dignity than influence.

"One phase of the job I'm not happy with is that I have little influence because I must appear fair and give equal consideration," he said.

Burney, now 71, shuns any talk of his future political ambitions, although he has been mentioned as a possible Republican gubernatorial candidate in 1964. "I'd rather not talk about that now," he says, when the subject is brought up by newsmen.

No Senatorial Plans

But Burney emphatically discounts any plans to run for the Legislature again. He was a state senator for 12 years before sort of inheriting the office of lieutenant governor.

He was speaker of the Legislature in 1955 when Lt. Gov. Charles Warner died during the session. Burney presided over his fellow lawmakers the rest of the way and it seemed only reasonable I should file for that (lieutenant governor) office in the next election."

He did won and has held the office ever since being re-elected 3 times. Looking back he remembers, "as a legislator I had the right to talk on the merits of bills."

Even with the likes of the inexpressible Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff stirring things up, Burney doesn't think the present session is any more difficult to handle than past ones.

This is an average session is far as my job is concerned," Burney said recently after what seemed to be a pretty hectic morning of floor debate. His main duty is to regulate the normal flow of business in the Legislature. Burney considers his job un-chemical.

Actually, the presiding officer of any Legislature has a good deal of power if he wants to use it. No senator can speak on the floor of the Legislature unless he gets the permission of the presiding officer who can theoretically control debate on a bill by granting or withholding permission.

Scrupulous Attempt

Burney says he tries to be scrupulously fair in giving everyone a chance to speak and only rarely has he received complaints from lawmakers who thought they had been ignored.

He acknowledges occasionally advising a senator to move the previous question when he thinks there has been enough pertinent debate on a bill. This is a legislative device to stop debate and get an immediate vote on a measure.

Burney is of the opinion that the lieutenant governor would have more influence if the Legislature was partisan.

Was Governor

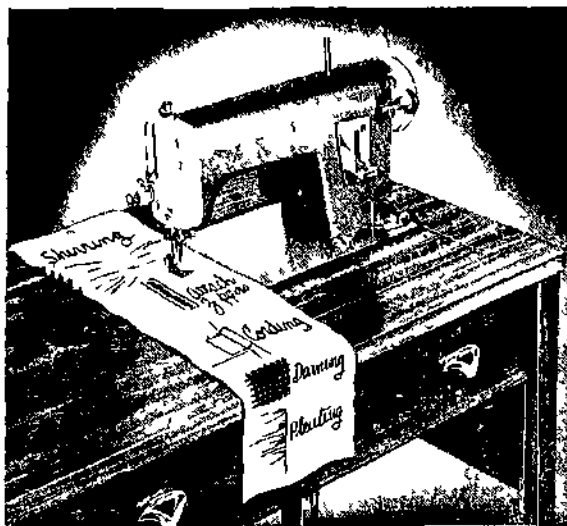

Burney was Nebraska's 30th governor for a short spell in 1960 after Democratic Gov. Ralph G. Brooks died in office.

Asked whether he believes the governor and lieutenant governor should be elected as a team, as in some other states, Burney said that might not be a bad idea.

Schuyler Voc Ag Team Won Blue Ribbon In Stock Judging

Fourteen Nebraska vocational agriculture teams won blue ribbons in the live stock judging contest held in conjunction with the state Future Farmers of America (FFA) convention here last week. It was reported Tuesday.

Schuyler High School topped a field of 41 teams with a total of 173 points leading second place Oakland by a substantial margin. FFA member of the Grand Island FFA chapter won first place honors in individual competition with 629 points, while Steve Anderson of South Sioux City was runner-up with 611 points.

Blue ribbon team placings: Schuyler, Oakland, Exeter, Tekamah, Callaway, Scribner, Wisner, Hooper, South Sioux City, Uteka, Sutherland, Pawnee City, Grand Island and Papillion.

Members of an FFA team from North Loup School Consolidated School took top honors in dairy cattle selection.

Blue ribbons were also awarded to the following teams: North Loup, Scottsbluff, South Sioux City, Hay Springs, Rock County, Fremont, Central City, Newman, Grove, Wakefield, Pender, Oakland, Hooper, Leigh.

A vocational agriculture team from Hooper won top honors in a poultry judging contest for the 3rd year in a row here.

Two members of the winning Hooper team — Robert Milligan and Roger Hunter — both of Hooper — garnered the first and second blue ribbons in individual competition.

Other blue ribbon teams included Hooper, Shelton, Schuyler, North Platte, Kimball, Nebraska City, Verdigris, Cozad, Henderson, Tekamah.

Iowan's Body Is Located In Lake

South Sioux City (UPI)—The body of Lester Minear, 63, Sioux City, Iowa, was recovered from Crystal Lake here Tuesday, ending a two-day search.

Minear fell from a motor boat operated by Dr. Max Wamwright, a Sioux City physician Sunday.

The body was found in about 8 feet of water in the same general area where Minear drowned about 150 feet from the west edge of the Crystal Lake shoreline.

Dr. Wamwright said he was operating the motor boat with Minear and his dog sitting atop the cover of the motor in the rear of the craft. Minear toppled off the rear of the boat suddenly, the doctor said.

WHAT DO DOCTORS RECOMMEND the Most For TENSE, NERVOUS HEADACHES?

ANACIN® contains the pain reliever doctors recommend most for headaches in minutes—pain goes, so does its tension, mental fatigue and depression.

New York, N.Y. Medical reports confirm that tense, nervous headaches are by far the most common kind. They are caused by tension that presses on the nerves. But fortunately, one can get remarkable relief in minutes with this special tablet—Anacin.

Anacin not only relieves the pain, but also relaxes its tension and releases painful pressure on nerves—bringing you fast "all over" relief.

Anacin is like a doctor's prescription. That is, a combination of ingredients. The reason Anacin tablets are so effective is because they contain the pain reliever doctors recommend the most plus an extra ingredient not found in leading aspirins or buffered aspirins. And Anacin has such a gentle action. Doesn't leave you depressed or "let down."

This big difference in Anacin makes the big difference in the way you feel. Buy Anacin today.

Burney was Nebraska's 30th governor for a short spell in 1960 after Democratic Gov. Ralph G. Brooks died in office.

Asked whether he believes the governor and lieutenant governor should be elected as a team, as in some other states, Burney said that might not be a bad idea.

But he was quick to observe that if this had been the case here in the past, he wouldn't be where he is now since the state's last 3 elected governors have been Democrats.

Schuyler Voc Ag Team Won Blue Ribbon In Stock Judging

Schuyler High School topped a field of 41 teams with a total of 1,735 points, leading second-place Oakland by a substantial margin. Tom Burmood, a member of the Grand Island FFA chapter, won first place honors in individual competition with 629 points, while Steve Anderson of South Sioux City was runner-up with 611 points.

Iowan's Body Is Located In Lake

South Sioux City (UPI)—The body of Lester Minear, 65, Sioux City, Iowa, was recovered from Crystal Lake here Tuesday, ending a two-day search.

Minear fell from a motor boat operated by Dr. Max Wainwright, a Sioux City physician, Sunday.

The body was found in about 8 feet of water in the same general area where Minear drowned, about 150 feet from the west edge of the Crystal Lake shoreline.

Dr. Wainwright said he was operating the motor boat with Minear and his dog sitting atop the cover of the motor in the rear of the craft. Minear toppled off the rear of the boat suddenly, the doctor said.

No Action On Raymond Road Request

Lancaster County commissioners Tuesday took no action on a request by Raymond area residents for an access road onto U.S. 34 now being relocated near the Lincoln Air Force Base.

Some 25 residents told the board that they felt they had been treated unfairly in being forced to detour via the old highway to get on and off the Interstate due to the construction of an overpass over the

Raymond road. They contended that the road they must use is practically impassable during bad weather, and cited LAFB traffic as a major problem at the crossing they must now use to get off and on the new highway. No Money County Engineer Hugh Dillon said that there are no county funds available for the estimated $40,000 access road requested.

The residents suggested an access which would run directly south of Westview Nursing Home where the Union Pacific Railroad crosses the new highway at the Old Raymond Road.

Donald Coffey, representing the State Department of Roads, told the residents and the board that neither state nor federal funds are available for such a project and the state has no present plans for an access road.

"We must first find out if there is a need for access before we do anything," he said.

Alternate Route An alternative suggested by Dillon and the commissioners was the same route to get on the highway but a short access off the new highway directly north of the Air Base Road across the highway back to the Raymond Road.

This, it was noted, would avoid left-hand turns and would alleviate the greater problem which was getting off the highway with the heavy Air Base traffic.

Dillon estimated this project to cost about $3,000 plus condemnation of land.

Indian, Migrant Problems Outlined

Problems of migrant workers and Indian families were outlined Tuesday at sessions of the Lincoln United Church Women meeting.

The Rev. Homer Noley of the Omaha City Mission Society said the plight of the Indian family in an urban setting such as Omaha is one of adjustment and tremendous effort "simply to achieve immediate goals such as food."

The Rev. Mr. Noley, himself a Choctaw Indian, pointed to the "great lack of progressive spirit among the Indian people" but warned that any attempt to change the situation must be preceded by intensive study and understanding.

Communal Tradition In traditional Indian culture, he said, communal living is the accepted standard, with everything done for the good of the clan or tribe, and every person equal.

He cited the "problematic tensions" generated when Indians moved from the reservation to cities to find that they were not considered equal, and were further hampered by their lack of job skills.

He commented that Indians should be encouraged to retain elements of their culture "only when these elements can be incorporated into the American culture."

Conditions Reviewed The Rev. William Scholes, western field director of the division of home missions of the National Council of Churches, reviewed migrant worker conditions in the fields of health, education and living conditions.

Nationally, The Rev. Mr. Scholes said, there are needs for centrally located health clinics, vocational re-education programs and understanding and help for the migrant workers.

"Migrant workers are trying by the thousands to get out of their situation and into secure, stationary work" but most of them have no money to rent a home and look for a job and no skills to use, the minister said.

Individual Concern In Nebraska, "the housing situation is better than average" and many growers are "individually concerned" over the migrant workers' problems, the Rev. Mr. Scholes said.

Cause Of Plattsmouth Man's Death Still Remains Unknown

Authorities were trying Tuesday to determine whether the death Monday of Earl Marler of Plattsmouth, a 64-year-old State Motor Vehicle Department employee, was the result of natural causes or a traffic accident.

Marler was found dead in his car which had run off Nebraska 76, 6 miles west of Shelby. He was alone at the time.

State Accident Records Bureau Chief Tom Ryan said there may be a medical examination to determine the exact cause of death. Meanwhile, Ryan said, Marler's death will not be counted as a traffic fatality.

Marler worked in the department's financial responsibility section.

Marler was born in Platt County, spent a number of years in Lincoln and moved to Plattsmouth around 1948, said Jerry Eiting, motor vehicles director.

"There seems no need for a great housing campaign here," he added, "but we must put effort into the areas of spiritual education and health."

During the LUCW business session, the following new officers were named for two-year terms:

Mrs. Rae Cameron, second vice president.

Mrs. Paul Bogott, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. William Pegans, treasurer.

Mrs. Lois Pentico, nominating committee member.

He is survived by his wife, 4 daughters and one son. Eiting reported that funeral services for Marler will be held 2 p.m. Thursday in Plattsmouth.

From Here And There

Former Coed, Bride

There is some bithering and yon-ing in the news this afternoon—We learned, for instance, that Mr. and Mrs. David Makepeace returned on Monday from what might be considered a rather unexpected weekend trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Makepeace had planned to spend the Easter holiday in Kansas City but on Friday they learned that their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Larkin of Evergreen, Colo., had added a new member to their family—a young lady by the name of Wendy who was just two weeks old when she arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Larkin.

Grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Makepeace immediately changed their travel plans and hurried to Evergreen to greet their new granddaughter who is, of course, also a new Kappa legacy.

Mrs. Larkin will be remembered as the former Lucette Makepeace, and the name Wendy is a natural in the Makepeace family since it is the name of Mrs. Larkin's sister, Mrs. Rich and Gustafson of Santa Rosa, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Larkin Jr. of Omaha are the paternal grandparents.

Guests, Travelers In Suburbia

News from this neighborhood takes on a new air this morning as, for the first time in several days now, the area's social activities don't seem to be centered on East or coming and goings.

Country Club Terrace residents who are traveling to day are Mr. and Mrs. Harold (Hal) Rice and children, Ricky and Crystal who are headed toward Mrs. Rice's former home in the Lone Star State.

Specifically, they will soon be in Wichita Falls, Tex. where they will be houseguests of Mrs. Rice's cousin and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Reasoner. Other relatives they will be visiting include Mrs. Rice's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Palmer, and another uncle, Clyde O'Mary.

The Texas visit will last 10 days.

And not long before this morning's departure, Mr. and Mrs. Rice were host and hostess themselves as they entertained houseguests at their Country Club Terrace home. Then guests from Thursday through Sunday were Mr. Rice's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Wilke of Cherokee, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Badger Jr. didn't entertain houseguests during the Easter holiday, but they are expecting a visitor at their Country Club Terrace home in the very near future. The expected guest is Mr. Badger's mother, Mrs. Robert Badger who will arrive in Lincoln near the end of this week.

A highlight of Mr. Badger's visit will be a birthday celebration next weekend.

LWC Group

The members of the Lincoln Woman's Club Kensington will meet at 1:15 o'clock Thursday at the club house. New officers will be installed and the program will be followed by a tea.

when Mr. and Mrs. Badger, Miss Carolyn Badger will join in anniversary festivities honoring Mr. and Mrs. Badger's other daughter, Melissa. This will be anniversary number five for the junior miss.

The senior Mrs. Badger plans to be in Lincoln for a week before returning to her home in St. Louis.

And one Easter visit we do want to mention is that of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Carolan of Kansas City, Mo., who spent last Saturday and Sunday in Country Club Terrace with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Hannegan.

Mr. and Mrs. Carolan weren't the only visitors at the Hannegan home during the Easter holidays, however, for Mr. and Mrs. Hannegan and their sons, David and Tommy, also entertained Mrs. Hannegan's brother-in-law and sister and children, Mr. and Mrs. Kent Hayes and Mike and Mark. These travelers drove to Lincoln from their home in Topeka, Kan.

And the weekend must have indeed been busy for Mr. and Mrs. Hannegan, for on Monday, they took to the open road themselves and drove to Chicago, Ill. The combined business and pleasure stay in Chicago will end on Friday.

Country Club Terrace residents who left the neighborhood for the recent holiday were Mr. and Mrs. Jerry T. Timble and their sons, J. Scott and Christopher. They spent Easter Day in Lyons, where they were dinner and afternoon guests of Mrs. Timble's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Karo.

Making the trip to Lyons with Mr. and Mrs. Timble and their sons was Mrs. Timble's father, Vernon Anderson, a resident of Lincoln's Veterans Hospital.

And it looks as though we just can't get away from it for we still have more Easter visitors to mention, and these were Manning, Iowa, residents who spent the special day with Country Club Terrace relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pfoltner and their daughters, Iris and Debbie.

The Iowa visitors at the Pfoltner home were Mr. Pfoltner's mother, Mrs. Ida Pfoltner, a brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Pfannkuch, and another sister and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Callender and their two sons.

The group returned to Manning that same evening.

Another birthday in Country Club Terrace was celebrated on Monday at the J. J. Herman household, and this one belonged to little Miss Michelle Herman who is now five years old.

Michelle celebrated that afternoon with a few neighborhood friends and her older sister, Leslie.

At an 11 o'clock morning service on Tuesday, April 16, Miss Jean Adele Ostiguy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Ostiguy of Des Moines, became the bride of Robert Dee Oaks son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Oaks. The ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Thomas M. Pucelik at St. Thomas Aquinas Church, and Miss Susan Oberle, organist, played the wedding music. Miss Oberle also accompanied Miss Nancy Dunker, the vocal soloist.

Wearing flocks of embroidered pink organza fashioned in the sheath mode were Miss Judy Kay Ostiguy, who was her twin sister's maid of honor and the bridesmaids, Miss Carol Jean Ostiguy, also a sister of the bride, Miss Susan Leacock and Miss Katherine Matson. The attendants carried bouquets of white French carnations filled with pink tulle.

Richard LeRoy Oaks of Columbus, Mo., served his brother as best man, and seating the guests were Michael Emigan, Nick Robinson and Val Policky.

The bride chose a gown of white French lace over satin for her wedding. A narrow banding of illusion edged the shoulder wide neckline of the lace bodice, which was complemented by long fitted sleeves, and the floor-length skirt of lace was shirred into fullness and parted in the front to reveal a panel of minutely-pleated tulle. Her veil of silk illusion was held by a pearl and sequin crown, and she carried a white playboy book clustered with white roses.

Following a wedding trip to the Ozarks, Mr. and Mrs. Oaks will make their home in Lincoln. The bride is a former student at the University of Nebraska, where Mr. Oaks, who is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity, is a junior student.

There is some hithering and yon-ing in the news this ayem—We learned, for instance, that Mr. and Mrs. David Makepeace returned on Monday from what might be considered a rather unexpected weekend trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Makepeace had planned to spend the Easter holiday in Kansas City, but on Friday they learned that their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Larkin of Evergreen, Colo., had added a new member to their family—a young lady by the name of Wendy who was just two weeks old when she arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Larkin.

Grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Makepeace immediately changed their travel plans and hurried to Evergreen to greet their new granddaughter who is, of course, also a new Kappa legacy.

Mrs. Larkin will be remembered as the former Lucette Makepeace, and the name Wendy is a natural in the Makepeace family—since it is the name of Mrs. Larkin's sister, Mrs. Richard Gustafson of Santa Rosa, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Larkin Jr., of Omaha are the paternal grandparents.

Miss Wendy also has three great-grandmothers—Mrs. Fred S. Larkin, also of Omaha; Mrs. Dunbar Plunkett of New York City, and Mrs. Frank B. Makepeace of Lakewood, Calif.

Ostiguy of Des Moines, became the bride of Robert Dee Oaks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilber Oaks. The ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Thomas M. Pucelik at St. Thomas Aquinas Church, and Miss Susan Oberle, organist, played the wedding music. Miss Oberle also accompanied Miss Nancy Dunker, the vocal soloist.

Wearing frocks of embroidered pink organza fashioned in the sheath mode were Miss Judy Kay Ostiguy, who was her twin sister's maid of honor, and the bridesmaids, Miss Carol Jean Ostiguy, also a sister of the bride, Miss Susan Leacox and Miss Katherine Matison. The attendants carried bouquets of white Frenched carnations frilled with pink tulle.

Richard LeRoy Oaks of Columbus, Mo., served his brother as best man, and seating the guests were Michael Finigan, Nick Robinson and Val Policky.

The bride chose a gown of white French lace over satin for her wedding. A narrow banding of illusion edged the shoulder-wide neckline of the lace bodice, which was complemented by long, fitted sleeves, and the floor-length skirt of lace was shirred into fullness and parted in the front to reveal a panel of minutely-pleated tulle. Her veil of silk illusion was held by a pearl and sequin crown, and she carried a white prayer book clustered with white roses.

Following a wedding trip to the Ozarks, Mr. and Mrs. Oaks will make their home in Lincoln. The bride is a former student at the University of Nebraska, where Mr. Oaks, who is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity, is a junior student.

Lilac Bush Presented

The gift of a pink, "Lucie Baltet" lilac bush was presented to Mrs. Frank Morrison on Monday morning by the Women's Division of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce, which again is sponsoring the planting of 100 lilac bushes in the city this spring.

The bush, which was planted in the garden of the Governor's Mansion, was sent to the Women's Division by the Women's Council of Rochester, N.Y., also known (as is Lincoln) as the Lilac City, and famed for its Highland Park containing the world's largest collection of lilacs.

The Lincoln Women's Division previously had presented a "President Lincoln" lilac bush to the city of Rochester.

Dear Abby

Report The Mother

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: The husband with the perfume on his shoulder reminded me of something funny. A few years ago I was standing in the rear of an elevator when three men got in. One man in a light gray suit was standing directly in front of me when his friend, in a playful gesture (not seeing me), shoved him back. He left with a perfect imprint of his lips right between his shoulder blades. I wonder what his wife thought when he got home?

MRS. G. DEAR MRS. G.: What better proof could a wife want that her husband wouldn't even turn around to LOOK at another woman?

DEAR ABBY: We don't mean to interfere in anyone else's business, but we have a neighbor who has a little girl two-and-a-half years old. We don't think she treats this little girl right. She doesn't walk or talk, and the mother keeps her strapped in a chair all day long. The poor angel is so bitter and frustrated she sometimes bites herself until she bleeds. The mother says the little girl is "bad." But how can she be "bad" when she is strapped in a chair all day long? What do you suggest?

NO NAME PLEASE DEAR NO NAME: The mother should be reported to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. If you have no local society, ask your law enforcement officer where to report this.

DEAR ABBY: That man at the stamp window who told the "citizen" who complained that postage rates were too high either to deliver the letter himself, or call long distance, should keep this in mind:

Long distance phone rates have recently been reduced for the 33rd time since 1934. A record of consistently improved service has been established. Meanwhile, the postage rates have doubled, without any improved service. Tax dollars are still needed to subsidize mail service.

P.S. If you don't receive this, I'll call you long distance.

DEAR JUST: Don't call. Write. Your message reached me for only five cents. And it traveled 2,000 miles, and I'm not complaining.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow and am going around with a man who doesn't want me to wear my rings. He says that people will say he is going with a married woman. What should I do?

WORRIED WIDOW DEAR WORRIED: Remove your rings. He's right.

WHY GROW OLD?

Josephine Lowman

Very often, husbands write asking me to send reducing leaflets to their wives. Well, girls, here's your chance to get even. Today, you can write for information your husband needs. All you have to do is send a stamped, self-addressed envelope along with your request for his medicine.

My guess is that your requests will be for help for the bay window. Men don't look any better with a protruding tummy than women do. In addition, there is the thickening waistline which can give a middle-aged appearance to both men and women who aren't really middle-aged at all! One masculine friend of mine has been taking Why Grow Old? waist-reducing exercises for a long time and has given me his belt as a trophy—the belt he took up four notches!

Then, too many men have the sloping shoulder line, never attractive in a masculine silhouette. Men like good chest muscles and a baseball in their upper arm. The following exercise is one men like to do. (If your man is completely out of condition, it will be too hard for him, but I believe most men can execute this one with little or no trouble.)

Lie on the floor on your back. Legs are straight and arms are on the floor, overhead. Raise the trunk, arms and legs (knees stiff) at the same time, and touch fingers to legs or feet, whichever you can do. Lower trunk, arms and legs to the floor simultaneously. Continue.

The punching bag exercise is fun and is efficient in building up the arm and chest muscles. If you don't own a punching bag—and most people don't—pretend you are punching one anyway. Clench your fists hard and punch hard as though the bag were in front of you, bringing your punch in toward the center of your body a little.

If you notice girls wearing black cotton pleated skirts, goldish blouses with LSE monogrammed, black shoes and gold socks, don't worry, it's not the latest fad. That girl is just a member of SE's pep club. Knightettes will be wearing their spring uniforms one day a week this spring.

"Moon River" has been chosen as the theme of this year's Junior-Senior Prom. Juniors finance and plan this project and they now are in the process of collecting class dues. Although committee chairmen have been appointed, many more juniors are needed to help carry out the plans being made.

WHY GROW OLD?

Josephine Lowman

Very often, husbands write asking me to send reducing leaflets to their wives. Well, girls, here's your chance to get even. Today, you can write for information your husband needs. All you have to do is send a stamped, self-addressed envelope along with your request for his medicine.

My guess is that your requests will be for help for the bay window. Men don't look any better with a protruding tummy than women do. In addition, there is the thickening waistline which can give a middle-aged appearance to both men and women who aren't really middle-aged at all! One masculine friend of mine has been taking Why Grow Old? waist-reducing exercises for a long time and has given me his belt as a trophy—the belt he took up four notches!

Then, too many men have the sloping shoulder line, never attractive in a masculine silhouette. Men like good chest muscles and a baseball in their upper arm. The following exercise is one men like to do. (If your man is completely out of condition, it will be too hard for him, but I believe most men can execute this one with little or no trouble.)

Lie on the floor on your back. Legs are straight and arms are on the floor, overhead. Raise the trunk, arms and legs (knees stiff) at the same time, and touch fingers to legs or feet, whichever you can do. Lower trunk, arms and legs to the floor simultaneously. Continue.

The punching bag exercise is fun and is efficient in building up the arm and chest muscles. If you don't own a punching bag—and most people don't—pretend you are punching one anyway. Clench your fists hard and punch hard as though the bag were in front of you, bringing your punch in toward the center of your body a little.

"Ten Little Indians," a mystery by Agatha Christie will be this spring's play at Southeast. It will be presented in the auditorium May 9 and 10. Tryouts have been held and rehearsals already have begun. Feminine leads in the play will be taken by seniors Sally Spohn, Gayle Youngman and Terri Billiard. Playing the main male roles will be seniors Kelley Baker, Jan Kreader and Sam McPherson.

Plans for the second annual Southeast Key Club Car have been announced. The date will be April 25 and this year the carnival will feature the Fish Pond, the Junk Car, Football Throw Strength Test, Guess Your Weight, Ring, Penny and Nickel Tosses, Cake Walk and Dart and Basketball throw. Another attraction will be Fantasia Follies which will feature senior boys dressed as girls.

May 4, will be the date of the annual meeting of the Nebraska Academy of Science. It will be held at University High School. Displays of science projects of students from all over Nebraska will be shown. This year about 12 members of Southeast's Science Club will be participating.

Senior boys, Lewiston Birkman, Richard E. Johnson and Dale Parker earned perfect scores on all phases of the Airman Qualifying Test which was offered to all seniors as an opportunity to discover in which areas their abilities lie. This test was an aptitude test and it measured mechanical, administrative, general and electronic ability.

Easter vacation began last Thursday and lasted through Tuesday. Although this was a vacation from the classroom it was not necessarily a vacation from work since many Knights saved themes and book reports for "Vacation."

If you notice girls wearing black cotton pleated skirts, goldish blouses with LSE monogrammed, black shoes and gold socks, don't worry, it's not the latest fad. That girl is just a member of SE's pep club. Knightettes will be wearing their spring uniforms one day a week this spring.

"Moon River" has been chosen as the theme of this year's Junior-Senior Prom. Juniors finance and plan this project and they now are in the process of collecting class dues. Although committee chairmen have been appointed, many more juniors are needed to help carry out the plans being made.

Big And Difficult Job Still Ahead For Nebraska's Legislature

By ODELL HANSON
Associated Press

Nebraska legislators, refreshed by their first real vacation since Jan. 1 but sobered by the proportions of the lawmaking job still ahead, return to work at 10 a.m. Wednesday, ending a 6-day Easter recess.

Although the 83rd session apparently has passed the halfway mark, most of the major knotty problems that confronted the Legislature when it convened still are present and awaiting decision, analysis showed Tuesday.

Before the session even started, senators tabbed spending, taxation, power and legislative reapportionment as the big issues to be faced, with education and highways also in the running.

Except for reapportionment, the problems still are hanging around.

With unexpected unanimity, senators hammered out a legislative redistricting bill palatable to just about every one.

The measure increases the size of the Legislature from 43 to 49 members and puts into use the constitutional amendment approved by voters last November under which weight of 20 to 30% is given to area, modifying the population-only criterion previously in effect.

The bill, LB629, has cleared its committee and general file tests and currently is undergoing its last technical review before final passage.

Less Clear

Considerably less clear is the record which the 1963 Legislature eventually will write in the matter of appropriations, money-raising devices, and solutions to power, education and highway problems.

Appropriations will hinge largely on the recommendations of the Budget Committee, whose report to the floor isn't expected for another month and a half.

The complexion of appropriations can be altered also by new money-costing programs which the Legislature may choose to undertake. To date, few such new programs have been approved although many await legislative determination.

The key measure, LB612, calling for enactment of a state income tax, is scheduled for floor debate April 25.

Of a string of less spectacular proposals to keep property taxes in check, only the pari-mutuel betting tax has been acted upon. Lawmakers approved an increase from 2 to 3% in the state betting tax.

Bills to increase the tax on cigarettes and place a state tax on other tobacco products, to hike the tax on liquor and beer, and to increase the state motor vehicle license fee are among those awaiting disposition.

On the power front, one major step is nearing accomplishment. Approved on general file last week was a key bill giving legal recognition to retail service area agreements which power districts may negotiate among themselves, and creating a Nebraska Power Review Board to call the turns when districts fail to agree.

Although much struggle and sweat went into the Power Review Board bill, LB220, power districts started off considerably closer to agreement on its general principle than they are on other major power bills awaiting action.

Key measures to be handled yet include one calling for a "strong merger" of generation and transmission facilities as advocated by Consumers public power district, and another involving a 5-area plan supported by some other districts.

Some observers believe both proposals eventually will be scrapped, leaving LB220 as the major power accomplishment of the session.

The legislators in 71 work days prior to the Easter recess withdrew 27 bills and killed another 144, thereby disposing of such proposals as:

- Osteopaths to practice medicine and surgery.
- Abolition of capital punishment.
- Health danger labels on cigarettes.
- Partition election of legislators.

—Reflectorization of license plates.

Here, on the other hand, are a few of the scores of proposals which still need final disposition:

- Legalized dove shooting.
- Medical care for the aged.
- State aid to education, including junior colleges.
- Legalized dog race betting.
- Creation of a statewide educational television network.
- Compulsory driver license re-examinations periodically.
- Retirement system for state employees.
- Licensing of bottle clubs.
- Fair Employment Practices Act.
- Salary boosts for a host of state officials, from governor down.
- Creation of a Feed Grains Commission.
- Increased hunting and fishing license fees.
- Sale of state school lands.
- Call for a constitutional convention.
- Establishment of more state trade schools.
- Creation of a new Department of Economic Development.

"Never use self-polishing wax on wood floors!"

...says Henry M. Tobey, Research Director of the world's largest hardwood floor maker

"Many conscientious housewives may be ruining their beautiful wood floors by using self-polishing wax—but they don't know it—yet! The fact is, most self-polishing waxes are made of synthetic plastics which cannot be removed from your wood floors without damaging the finish or the wood.

So the layers of old self-polishing wax pile up until the wood floor becomes darkened and discolored.

The only wood floor care we recommend is Bruce Cleaning Wax or Bruce Floor Cleaner. Both contain a combination of removable liquid paste wax and waterless wood floor cleaner. They clean; remove the old wax; and leave a rich, new coat of paste wax protection—all at the same time!

If you prefer a heavy coat of wax, use Bruce Cleaning Wax. For lighter waxing or badly soiled floors, you'll want Bruce Floor Cleaner. It's the right way to keep your wood floors clean and bright. Easier, too."

Automakers To Try 'New Road'

Detroit (AP) — The world's two largest automakers have agreed with the United Auto Workers Union to "explore a new road" in search of a smooth route to new wage contracts.

Ford Motor Co. Tuesday and General Motors Corp. Monday agreed to immediate establishment of pre-bargaining study committees to establish, among other things, a common set of facts on complex, technical problems.

Actual contract negotiations covering approximately one million UAW-represented auto workers do not begin until mid-1964. But both GM and Ford quickly accepted UAW President Walter P. Reuther's suggestion they begin a year in advance looking out dangers of a breakdown.

Similar Plan
The UAW is scheduled to discuss a similar plan with Chrysler Corp. April 25 and later on with American Motors Corp. Reuther did not include Studebaker, smallest U.S. producer, in outlining his study committee proposal to the industry.

Malcolm L. Denise, Ford vice president labor relations, told newsmen after an hour's meeting with Reuther Tuesday "we'll be exploring a new road... but won't know where it leads until we travel it."

Reuther said in reply to a question "I'd hope down that road we'd find a way to improve the mechanics" of reaching at the plant agreements, which supplement national wage packages.

Mother's Rescue Try Kills Baby

Dubuque (AP) — A mother, cradling her baby in her arms, jumped from a second floor window to escape a fire at her home Monday night.

But her 15 foot drop to safety apparently led to the baby's death.

The fire broke out after Mrs. Eugene Baumhoyer and her 3 children had retired for the night.

Upon discovering the fire shortly before 10 p.m., Mrs. Baumhoyer shouted to her two older daughters, Bonnie Kemler, 10, and Betty Kemler, 9, to get out of the house.

Mrs. Baumhoyer grabbed the baby, 3-month-old F. J. and leaped from the window.

Dr. Leonard P. Zelmskas, deputy county medical examiner, said the baby died of a head injury apparently received when she and the mother hit the ground.

Betty, who fell down the stairs in trying to escape, suffered second degree burns on the legs. She was in fair condition at a hospital. Her older sister was not injured.

Mrs. Baumhoyer, whose husband was away from home at a part time job, also was in fair condition with shock, second degree burns on the arms and a possible skull fracture.

Smoke Seen

A passerby, Steven Langenbach, noticed smoke coming from the house and broke in the front door. He made his way to the rear door and found Mrs. Baumhoyer and the baby on the ground.

Langenbach handed the baby to his wife, but Mrs. Baumhoyer was unconscious.

The family pet cat, Snooper, was found dead in the basement under a stairwell.

Services for the baby will be Wednesday.

Educational TV Station Is Urged

Omaha (AP) — The Omaha superintendent of schools said Tuesday a 7th educational television station in Omaha "could be added at no greater cost than proposed for the recommended."

Dr. Paul A. Miller, the superintendent, said LB666 and LB667 would lead to development of the LTV system including stations at Alliance, North Platte, Lexington, Basett, Lincoln and Albion.

Yet, he said, Omaha, which is not included, has one sixth of Nebraska's school children.

The two bills come up for hearing Thursday before the Legislature's Education Committee.

"Nursing home business has become big business," the Nebraska Nursing Home Association was told Tuesday. President Clifford M. Approximately 100 nursing home administrators registered Tuesday. They were welcomed by Marion McCracken of Lincoln's Tabitha House Institute in Omaha.

Business sessions, committee meetings and reports from district and state officials occupied most of the day. Luncheon speaker was Spencer E. Blader, executive director of Immanuel Deaconess Institute in Omaha.

Monkeys In Chair Test New Pain-Killing Drug

Atlantic City, N.J. (AP)—A monkey in a chair with a built-in hot foot is testing a new, experimental pain-killer as effective as morphine, but not habit forming or a depressant, a pharmacologist said Tuesday.

The drug a synthetic variation of another pain-killer—is called WY-535, reported Jerry L. Malis, a Wyeth Laboratories researcher.

Even now it is being tried on some cancer patients and some patients after surgery with good results, he told a meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology.

The monkey chair was built to get around the difficult problem of measuring pain such as humans endure in animals, and the effects of pain-killers.

Difficult Chore

MONKEY . . . used in pain-killer tests.

It was impossible to demonstrate the pain-killing qualities of aspirin in animals, Malis said. If a manufacturer wanted to prove that aspirin did indeed kill pain and could use only animal studies, he would have had a difficult chore.

Monkeys Tested

Untreated monkeys were tested in this way to provide a baseline to judge their reaction to pain—to determine how much they could take before they hit the lever to reduce it.

Then monkeys treated with various pain-killing drugs were put in the chair and tested for their level of pain endurance. In aspirin, there was a noticeable increase in the amount of shock the monkeys endured before cutting it down.

By this measure, Wyeth researchers claim, the new drug has shown its effectiveness as comparable with morphine.

But they emphasize that the results are clearly preliminary and much testing—especially on humans—remains to be done.

However, they have not been able to find depressing effects from WY-535, and they discover no addicting qualities either.

Develop Tolerance

Animals and humans seem to develop tolerances to the narcotic drugs — making it necessary to constantly increase doses to get the effects. But with WY-535, Malis said, they have not been able to show that animals develop tolerances up to 40 days in monkeys. That means the dose stays constant with the same effect.

In humans, they have found WY-535 longer lasting than morphine. In some patients the dose has been effective in halting pain for 12 hours at a time, while equivalent morphine dosage had to be given every 4 hours.

The drug seems to disappear very quickly from the blood stream after it has been given, Malis said, indicating that there is some place where it is stored in the body. Little is known of its site of action—except that it affects somewhat different areas of the brain than do narcotics or other addicting painkillers.

Joint Front Asked Against Castro

New York, N.Y. (AP)—Assistant Secretary of State Edwin M. Martin called on the Latin American nations Tuesday to put aside their traditional devotion to "nonintervention" in favor of a greater stress on joint efforts against Castro's Cuba and other antidemocratic influences in this hemisphere.

Martin said corrective action against the Communist threat in this hemisphere "remains a sensitive issue for some governments which fear it would undermine the principles of self-determination and non-intervention."

"I believe such fears to be unfounded," he said. "Our interdependence makes it important that we in this hemisphere put to one side traditional attitudes which are obstacles to promoting representative democracy."

"It has been said that we should not concern ourselves with changing the present regime in Cuba, for that would violate the principle of self-determination.

"Until that regime is ready to seek the sanction of a free election, as Castro often promised to do in the early days, it has no claim for the protection of this great principle."

"And we should come to the realization that the active pursuit of ways for improving the quality of democracy in our respective countries does not constitute a violation of the principles of non-intervention."

Martin said the Cuba-Communist threat has given the American governments a new appreciation of their interdependence in political matters because they have come to recognize cooperation among them is indispensable for them is indispensable for maximum effectiveness against the Reds.

Monkeys In Chair Test New Pain-Killing Drug

Atlantic City, N.J. (P)—A monkey in a chair with a built-in hot foot is testing a new, experimental pain-killer as effective as morphine, but not habit forming or a depressant, a pharmacologist said Tuesday.

The drug a synthetic variation of another pain-killer—is called WY-535, reported Jerry L. Malis, a Wyeth Laboratories researcher.

Even now it is being tried on some cancer patients and some patients after surgery with good results, he told a meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology.

The monkey chair was built to get around the difficult problem of measuring pain such as humans endure in animals, and the effects of pain-killers.

Difficult Chore

Until recently, for example, it was impossible to demonstrate the pain-killing qualities of aspirin in animals, Malis said. If a manufacturer wanted to prove that aspirin did indeed kill pain and could use only animal studies, he would have had a difficult chore.

But the monkey chair has measured the mild effects of aspirin against pain.

Monkeys Tested

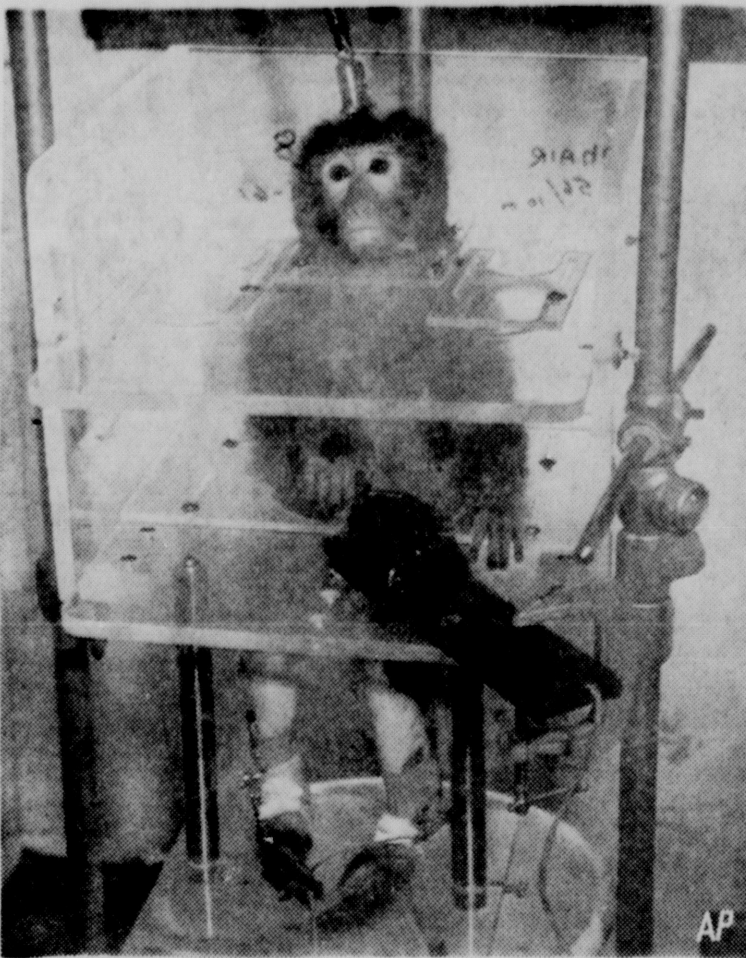

Untreated monkeys were tested in this way to provide a baseline to judge their reaction to pain—to determine how much they could take before they hit the lever to reduce it.

Then monkeys treated with various pain-killing drugs were put in the chair and tested for their level of pain endurance. In aspirin, there was a noticeable increase in the amount of shock the monkeys endured before cutting it down.

By this measure, Wyeth researchers claim, the new drug has shown its effectiveness as comparable with morphine.

But they emphasize that the results are clearly preliminary and much testing—especially on humans—remains to be done.

However, they have not been able to find depressing

MONKEY . . . used in pain-killer tests.

Martin said corrective action against the Communist threat in this hemisphere "remains a sensitive issue for some governments which fear it would undermine the principles of self-determination and non-intervention."

85% Oats, Barley Crops Planted; Rains Needed

Field work continued to make good strides in most areas of the state last week, government crop observers reported Tuesday.

Spring grains were nearly all planted with about 85% of the oats and barley in the ground. Planting operations were more advanced than usual for the date.

Early seeded fields were up, but lack of topsoil moisture has caused poor germination in some areas. Early potato and sugar beet planting was well along in the central and western districts. A few early planted beets were emerging.

start sooner than usual if weather conditions continue favorable. Farmers made good headway with their summer following. Some legumes were being planted in eastern counties.

Winter wheat showed a slight improvement last week as the result of local showers. The crop remaining for harvest is growing well in most areas with brightest prospects in the extreme eastern sections and in the Panhandle.

Winter kill has been severe in some central sections and some remaining stands are thin and spotted. Winter barley and rye are making good growth, but need rain.

Precipitation received throughout Nebraska by sections since the beginning of the growing season, April 1, as compared to longtime averages follows:

Northwest—61 of an inch (1902); 60 of an inch (normal).
North Central—52; 74.
Northeast—50; 80.
Central—58; 74.
East Central—41; 68.
Southwest—55; 60.
South Central—61; 75.
Southeast—57; 81.

POINT BLANK

By Don Bryant

Sports Editor, The Star

New Allegiance

It's taken a lot of soul-searching and much deliberation — but I've made my decision.

Henceforth, my major league (?) baseball allegiance will be to the New York Mets, not the New York Yankees.

I know, Yankee-Lovers, this is pure treason. And you're right. I deserve to have my membership card torn up.

But let's face it — the Yankees need my cheers like they need Casey Stengel back as manager.

Those Mets, however, need all the vocal support they can drum up.

Stengel's darlings have breathed new life into baseball with their pathetic ineptness.

Yes, But—Yawn

After all, what's so entertaining about the Yankees? If they need a home run to win, they get it. If they need a fine relief job, they get it. If they need a player to replace a star, they get it.

But my Mets are different (like you can say that again) because they keep you on the edge of your seat. They are past masters in the art of finding new ways to lose games — and therein lies their competitive stimulation.

Look at the statistics. At the end of the first week of the major league season, the Yankees are once again leading the American League. What's more, the Bronx pin-strippers are leading the league in hitting and fielding — two ingredients with which winning pennants become considerably easier.

Mets Worthy

The Mets? Poor devils, they're last in hitting (about 200 points below the leading San Francisco Giants; and 8th in fielding — and at this writing, they haven't won a game.

In their first 5 games the Mets managed only 19 singles and one home run. Then, by golly, they got hot and banged out 12 singles against Milwaukee, even leading at one point — but they lost, 4-3, when Tracy Stallard couldn't fight off the Braves in the 9th inning.

Sure, they're not big leaguers by any stretch of the imagination — but they got class, like Marines at Wake Island, the Battling Bastards of Bataan, the Washington Generals against the Harlem Globetrotters and South Dakota fishermen at Gavins Point.

That's good enough for me. And I'll even wager the Mets won't lose 'em all this summer.

South Dakota State Homer Downs Huskers, 4-3

By DON BRYANT

Star Sports Editor

Jerry Mathieson's solo home run in the 8th supplied South Dakota State with its first baseball victory of 1963, 4-3, and pushed the

day.

left field line, broke up a fine

pitching duel between Husker

George Landgren and Jack-rabbi Doug Peterson, both

the year.

Peterson came out on top by limiting the Huskers to 7 hits and blowing out a 9th in-

erhouse in the first inning, jumping on Peterson for 3 runs — two of them unearned,

Landgren in the second frame

until Mathieson slammed his

2-out homer in the 8th.

It was much the same old story for the Cornhuskers, who now have dropped 5 one-

record.

And as has been the story, too, the Huskers were woefully weak at the plate with men in scoring position.

Except for the 7 hits — one was Dave May's second triple of the SDS series — Nebraska managed to hit only two balls out of the infield. Wally

Duff filed to left in the 7th and Rod Beckman filed to right in 8th.

After passing up scoring chances in the second and 3rd

docile until the 9th.

Then, trailing for the first time in the series, pinch hitter John Faiman lived on an error and Tom Ernst worked

Peterson for a walk. Pinch batter Ron Douglas forced

Ernst for the second out while the lead runner moved to 3rd.

Douglas moved to second on a no-play steal, putting the tying and winning runs on 3rd and 2nd. But Peterson got

the day for the Jackrabbits.

Landgren did a fine job on

SDS after the second inning, holding the Jacks to a single

son's back-breaker.

The two clubs will wind up the series at the NU field today, with the contest starting at 1 p.m. Husker Jim Kah-rhoff (0-0) will start against

SDS' Sheldon Johnson, also minus a record.

Footnotes . . . Husker catcher Larry Bornschlegel carried a 10-game hitting streak into the contest but couldn't extend it. He was safe on an error, fanned, lined out and bounced out in 4 appearances

. . . NU lefty Ron Ihavekost

doused a SDS threat in the

one out and getting Jim Dwyer to fan and Peterson to bounce out . . . Landgren

3 in his losing effort . . .

Peterson whiffed 2 and walked

solid hits at base umpire

Paul Liesveld late in the game. NU's Tony Sharpe protested long and loud a double play call in the Husker 8th and Jackrabbit skipper Fiv-huetter did likewise, only for a shorter period, on a similar play in the 9th. Lies-

both instances.

Cimoli Leads Winning Surge

... CHISOX BEATEN, 7-4

Chicago (AP)—Gino Cimoli drove in 3 runs as the Kansas City Athletics stretched a winning streak to 4 games and climbed into a 3-way tie for the American League lead Tuesday with a 7-4 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Lefty Ted Bowsfield got his first triumph on a yield of 11 hits, including Ron Hansen's two-run homer in a belated 9th-inning rally that brought John Wyatt to the rescue.

Hansen, collecting 3 hits, singled in the Sox first run in the 4th and snapped a string of 21 scoreless innings. Pete Ward doubled home another in the 5th.

The Sox used 5 hurlers who were nipped for 10 hits with starter Eddie Fisher absorbing the loss. Cimoli's single was good for a run in the second inning. His bases-loaded sacrifice fly accounted for another in a two-run 4th and his triple produced one in the 6th.

The A's scored 3 in the 9th with Bobby Del Greco's single driving across a pair.

The Sox home opener drew a crowd of 24,760.

Old-Timer Boosts Modern Athletes

By HAL BROWN

Star Sports Writer

One of the best of the "old-timers" gave today's generation of athletes a big pat on the back Tuesday.

"There's no doubt about today's athletes being far superior to the athletes of my day," Harry Stuhldreher, who gained fame as one of Notre Dame's Four Horsemen, said on a visit to Lincoln.

"The athlete of today is far more intelligent and has more at his command," Stuhldreher added. "He has better coaching, better training, better diet and better everything."

The former Notre Dame great, who played on teams that lost only two games in 3 years — both to Nebraska, admitted that many of his generation contend the old-timers were better.

"But they are just old-timers who are jealously guarding their days of glory," he commented. "Some of these people claim that today's athletes are better because of better equipment or better tracks or the fiber-glass pole."

"But just look at swimming where records are being set every day. And the water is still the same density and the current is the same as it was in my time."

"The people who refuse to admit that athletes are better today are simply refusing to go along with the times."

In speaking of today's better athletes, Stuhldreher said he feels calling of plays in football should be left to the quarterback.

"Today's football players are smart enough to know what's going on down on the field and they should be allowed to run the game," he said.

Stuhldreher said he doesn't feel the added pressure being put on a coach to win nowadays should cause him to send in plays from the bench.

"When a coach enters the profession, he should know he is subject to criticism and if he can't stand this pressure then he should get out," the quarterback of the Four Horsemen explained.

Alabama Finds All OK In Fix Probe

... POST CHARGES NOT SUPPORTED

Montgomery, Ala. (AP) — A special legislative committee reported to the legislature Tuesday that it found "no evidence worthy of belief" to support charges by the Saturday Evening Post that the 1962 Georgia-Alabama football game was rigged.

The committee said it and Alabama Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers "have examined every material witness of whom we now have knowledge and who has been available to us. Based upon the information we now have, the committee has concluded that the evidence does not support charges made in the March 23 Saturday Evening Post article, 'The Story of a College Football Fix'."

The article charged that former Georgia Athletic Director Wallace Butts telephoned Bulldog Coach Paul Bryant before the game which Alabama, a heavy favorite, won 35-0. The committee said it is not possible to find any credible evidence of illegal, unethical or unsportsmanlike conduct on the part of Coach Paul Bryant, nor have we found any such evidence to indicate that the 1962 football game between the University of Alabama and the University of Georgia was rigged or fixed in any way. We have found no evidence worthy of belief to indicate that Coach Paul Bryant received any information from Coach Wallace Butts that had any effect on this game.

Blonde Swims Messina Straits

Messina, Sicily (AP) — Mary Margaret Revell, a 25-year-old blonde from Detroit, Tuesday became the first person ever to swim the swirling waters of the Strait of Messina from Sicily to Calabria and back.

Not a shark was in sight as the shapely miss completed the 13 miles for the two-way crossing in 5 hours and 28 minutes.

Men have swum the long dreaded channel between the fabled Scylla and Charybdis one way many times but neither man nor woman had ever before made a non-stop crossing.

ALLEY ACTION

Burbach Visits Disputed Area

... 'IT'S IN NEBRASKA'

By United Press International
A Nebraska legislator Tuesday said it "appears definitely" the Gavins Point Dam tailwaters near Yankton, S.D., are in Nebraska.

Sen. J. W. Burbach of Crofton said he arrived at this conclusion after spending 3 days in the area.

Burbach's district encompasses the tailwaters, currently being disputed by South Dakota and Nebraska.

The dispute was sparked by the Nebraska Game Commission when it, angered at South Dakota's unique law banning non-resident waterfowl hunters, voted to revoke an agreement under which South Dakotans were permitted to haul fish out of the fish-rich waters without need of a Nebraska permit.

Burbach expressed hope the dispute can "be settled as soon as possible. It is unfortunate that the states have this problem facing them."

"Actually," Burbach said, "The waterfowl retaliation approach has nothing to do with the matter."

Nebraska, he said, made its big mistake by not declaring the tailwaters part of the state when the Gavins Point Dam was constructed by the corps of engineers.

"We should never have entered into an agreement over the waters," he said, adding: "The big objection I have is that this was even permitted in the first place."

Burbach said the dispute is a "red hot issue" among residents of the troubled area.

"Some Nebraskans going over to Yankton are afraid to say where they are from for fear that a fight or something might break out," he said.

Stuart Paces Red Sox Win

Boston (P) — Dick Stuart celebrated his Fenway Park debut with a 3-run homer and Bill Monbouquette spun a 5-hitter staking Boston to a 6-1 home opener victory over Baltimore Tuesday.

Striding to the plate with a .105 batting mark, Stuart belted a mighty drive high over the left field fence off loser Robin Roberts as the highlight of the decisive 4-run Red Sox 6th inning.

Stuhldreher Says NU Game 'Turning Point'

By TOM HENDERSON
Star Sports Writer

Harry Stuhldreher, member of Notre Dame's famed "Four Horsemen", Tuesday night jokingly termed the 1922 Nebraska-Notre Dame football game as the "turning point" in his career.

Previously unbeaten, Notre Dame had only to win this game to finish the year with a perfect record.

"The game remained scoreless to the middle of the second quarter when Nebraska sent 214-pound Dave Noble into the line on an off-tackle play," Stuhldreher recalled. "Noble bulled his way through Notre Dame's backfield until I was the only one between he and the goal line."

Stuhldreher, then a sophomore, decided that "I was no match for no match for Noble and would be killed if I tried to stop him."

Noble scored. Nebraska won. And Stuhldreher lived to become a football great.

"If I had tried to stop Noble," Stuhldreher joked, "I wouldn't be here tonight." Stuhldreher was speaking at the Ninth Annual Cornhusker Council Boy Scout Recognition Dinner held at Pershing Auditorium Tuesday evening.

After an introduction by University of Nebraska Athletic Director Tippy Dye, Stuhldreher told of his career as a player and a coach.

Stuhldreher, who has two sons, said that he became interested in scouting because there is no substitute for an interest in our youth.

Everyone depends on someone else to bring up his children, he said. "Today's Boy Scouts are the people on whom we will depend tomorrow. Boy Scout leaders should be proud that they are helping to mold a material thing into a better result," he said.

Among the honored guests were Governor and Mrs. Frank B. Morrison, and Mr. and Mrs. Tippy Dye.

Carpenters Walk Out On Missile Site Work

Cheyenne, Wyo. (AP)—Seventy-five Carpenters Union members working on Minuteman missile construction in southeastern Wyoming, northern Colorado and western Nebraska walked off their jobs Tuesday in a jurisdictional dispute.

Business agent for the Cheyenne Local 469, Bill Scrapper, said the men are protesting that Iron Workers Union members are being assigned to work normally done by the Carpenters Union.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers district office said other work on the missile complex is going on despite the walkout of the carpenters.

Morrison-Knudsen Co. officials were not available for comment on the walkout.

Morrison-Knudsen has an $83,960,000 contract for construction of 200 Minuteman missile sites in the 3-state area and 20 launch control centers for the vast complex.

Many Affected
Scrapper said Carpenters Union locals at Cheyenne, Wyo., Scottsbluff and Sidney, Neb., Sterling and Greeley, Colo., and Millwrights Unions of Omaha and Denver are affected by the walkout.

Lt. Col. John Bell of the Air Force said the dispute probably would be brought up at a regular monthly meeting of the missile site labor relations committee Wednesday.

The colonel said the committee is advisory and can't take any direct action. It is composed of representatives from unions working on missile construction, the area engineer for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the Air Force coordinator for Minuteman missile construction.

Jury Grants $82,000 To Man's Kin

A U.S. District Court jury has awarded $81,892 to survivors of Harold B. Odle. He was killed two years ago in a construction accident at a missile site near York.

The damages were awarded to Mrs. Gertrude M. Odle and her daughter, Debra Lee, of Wichita, Kan.

Mrs. Odle originally asked for $501,892 damages from Western Contracting Corp.

Carpenters Walk Out On Missile Site Work

Cheyenne, Wyo. (AP)—Seventy-five Carpenters Union members working on Minuteman missile construction in southeastern Wyoming, northern Colorado and western Nebraska walked off their jobs Tuesday in a jurisdictional dispute.

Business agent for the Cheyenne Local 469, Bill Scrapper, said the men are protesting that Iron Workers Union members are being assigned to work normally done by the Carpenters Union.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers district office said other work on the missile complex is going on despite the walkout of the carpenters.

Morrison-Knudsen Co. officials were not available for comment on the walkout.

Morrison-Knudsen has an $83,960,000 contract for construction of 200 Minuteman missile sites in the 3-state area and 20 launch control centers for the vast complex.

Many Affected

Scrapper said Carpenters Union locals at Cheyenne, Wyo., Scottsbluff and Sidney, Neb., Sterling and Greeley, Colo., and Millwrights Unions of Omaha and Denver are affected by the walkout.

Lt. Col. John Bell of the Air Force said the dispute probably would be brought up at a regular monthly meeting of the missile site labor relations committee Wednesday.

The colonel said the committee is advisory and can't take any direct action. It is composed of representatives from unions working on missile construction, the area engineer for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the Air Force coordinator for the Minuteman missile construction.

Jury Grants $82,000 To Man's Kin

A U.S. District Court jury has awarded $81,892 to survivors of Harold B. Odle. He was killed two years ago in a construction accident at a missile site near York.

The damages were awarded to Mrs. Gertrude M. Odle and her daughter, Debra Lee, of Wichita, Kan.

Mrs. Odle originally asked for $501,892 damages from Western Contracting Corp. Odle, 26, was killed July 25, 1961, while working in the shaft at the missile site.

In her suit, his widow alleged Western Contracting was responsible for the death because it failed to provide proper ventilation of gases in the shaft.

WHY ARE PLYMOUTH SALES 79.3% AHEAD OF LAST YEAR?

One good reason:

Plymouth's new 5-year/50,000-mile warranty*

We knew we had a hot car. Then, when Plymouth announced that it was backing up its quality with America's longest and best new-car warranty, we were doubly sure. Look what happened—Plymouth sales in February were 79.3% ahead of last year, right in this Sales Region.

*Your Authorized Plymouth-Valiant Dealer's Warranty against defects in material and workmanship on 1963 cars has been expanded to include parts replacement or repair, without charge for required parts or labor, for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, on the engine block, head and internal parts; transmission case and internal parts (excluding manual clutch); torque converter, drive shaft, universal joints (excluding dust covers), rear axle and differential, and rear wheel bearings, provided the vehicle has been serviced at reasonable intervals according to the Plymouth-Valiant Certified Car Care schedule.
